Q 1. Identify the CORRECT statement regarding 'effective communication'.

- ☐ Considerable use of professional and technical words helps in clarity of communication
- ☐ Facial expressions and body movements are indicators of receiver's response to communication
- ☐ If communication is conveyed through intermediaries it becomes most effective
- ☐ Only a & b
- ☐ All of the above

🚫 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Facial expressions and body movements are indicators of receiver's response to communication

Explanation:

Principles of Good Communication include:

- i. Clarity of language: The language used should be simple, keeping in mind the knowledge levels of the receivers. Simple words, direct statements and short sentences communicate better. Avoid jargons. Jargons are technical and professional words, including abbreviations, which have different meanings in different contexts.
- ii. Communicate directly: Every communication has problems. If the communication is relayed through intermediaries, every intermediary is a potential source of distortion. Therefore, as far as possible communicate directly and not through someone else.
- iii. Be sensitive to receiver's response: The receiver's responses including his facial expressions and body movement, may give

🚫 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

Barriers to Effective Delegation: Despite the distinct advantages of delegation, managers are often unwilling to delegate and many subordinates are reluctant to accept the delegated responsibility. This may be because the manager:

- i. is autocratic and unwilling to delegate
- ii. feels that he can do it himself
- iii. does not have confidence in his subordinates
- iv. is insecure and apprehensive that the subordinate may do the job better than him.

The reason for failure to delegate may also be because the subordinate may be:

Q 3. Which of the following is the concept described in Reddin's 3D Theory?

- ☐ Individuals behaviour at workplace
- ☐ Rewards, recognition and punishments
- ☐ Quality, quantity and value for effort
- ☐ Managerial effectiveness
- ☐ Dimensions of personality

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Managerial effectiveness

Explanation:

Reddin's 3D Theory of managerial effectiveness:

Prof. Bill Reddin developed on the leadership style grid with the third dimension of effectiveness. According to him, each of the four leadership styles can be effective or ineffective depending on the circumstances in which it is applied.

In an organisation where the employee's initiative and skills are critical for results, like sales or research, high concern for people is important. The leader's emphasis on results must be moderated to the extent of offering help and support.

Thus, it can be seen that all styles are, or are not, effective, depending on the situations. Briefly, all styles are ineffective, when practised beyond moderation. Too much concern for persons, being too solicitous, can make people dependant. Too much concern for work makes one a workaholic.

- ☐ Attrition control
- ☐ Planning for expansion
- ☐ Finding out where people are required
- ☐ Leave management
- ☐ Succession planning

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Finding out where people are required

Explanation:

HR Planning will have to begin from finding out the vacancies that may arise.

a) Vacancies arising out of retirement, resignations or deaths: Assuming that there are enough person now to carry out the current tasks in the organisation, vacancies will arise in future due to retirements, resignations or deaths. Retirements can be known from the HRIS. The other two cannot be known. Past experiences are not good enough as indicators to the future.

b) Vacancies due to people going on leave: Apart from vacancies arising out of retirement, resignations and deaths, there can also be vacancies which are not permanent, like people going on leave. If the leave is planned annual leave, the office may be able to manage with some adjustments in work locally.

- d) Induction of new technology in organisation: The numbers will be affected by plans for inducting new technologies, or restructuring the organisation or for introducing new systems. Some of these plans might ask for newer or different skills of people or that some of the existing personnel will become redundant.
- e) Succession planning: Some organisations use the HRIS for what is known as succession planning. The idea of succession planning is that the vacancies that arise due to retirements, transfers and / or promotions at important middle and senior levels are filled up without delay.

- ☐ Study tour
- ☐ Workshop

🚫 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Role play

Explanation:

The role-play is a method in which the trainees are required to act out given roles in a given situation. Sometimes, they are given the script as in a stage play. Sometimes, the actors have to improvise the script on the spot. The situations may be related to employee-employer relationships, grievance handling, salesmanship, counselling, post-appraisal interview or a problem solving session.

This method helps in practising interpersonal skills and getting insights into the dynamics of behaviour.

Q 8. People follow a leader because _____.

- ☐ of monetary benefits
- ☐ of threat or fear of the leader
- ☐ they have trust and confidence in the leader
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Only a & c

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

they have trust and confidence in the leader

Explanation:

Leadership is the ability to influence other people. It is also defined as the process of influencing people. Either way, leadership is related to influencing people, to shape their attitudes and behaviours. It implies that influence is exercised to get the people to do what the leader wants them to do. There is a goal to be achieved.

When leaders get willing cooperation, they create within people an urge to do. Followers of leaders believe that if they follow the leader, they will get to situations and rewards that are satisfying. They believe that the leaders know the ways to get to these satisfactions. They also believe that the leaders have their well-being at heart.

There is thus trust and confidence and therefore, they follow. Leadership is concerned with obtaining willing co-operation of the followers, not under conditions of threat or fear which thugs and dacoits do.

Q 10. Identify the CORRECT statement/s regarding the characteristics of human resources.

- ☐ Individuals can turn to be a liability to the organisation
- ☐ Individuals are autonomous in their behaviours
- ☐ Individuals can improve their capabilities by learning and acquiring skills and knowledge on their own
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Only a & c

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

Human Resource Management (HRM) is based on the understanding that every individual is complex, endowed with the potential to enhance skills and become a more valuable asset as well as having, at the same time, the capacity to withdraw his skills from work and become a liability.

No person can be looked upon as having standard specifications, like other resources have. They cannot be treated in the same manner uniformly. Each person needs to be handled according to his unique personality. No resource other than the Human resource has this characteristic to become a more valuable asset or to become a liability, at its choice.

HR can learn and acquire knowledge and skills on their own, thus enhancing their capabilities, sometimes in totally different areas. They have minds of their own and may work harder or less as they choose to, for reasons that no one else may be able to

- ☐ Learning must result in permanent change in behaviour
- ☐ Individuals learn when they are forced to learn in a work environment
- ☐ Only options 'a' and 'b' are correct
- ☐ All of the above are correct statements

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only options 'a' and 'b' are correct

Explanation:

The social – learning theory has given us some principles of learning in the context of work.

These are:

- Individuals learn only when they want to learn. Workers in an organisation may be willing to learn when they are able to see how the training will be of help to them.
- Learning requires feedback. People learn better if they are told periodically about the progress they are making, as and when they learn, not at the very end.
- Reinforcement encourages repetition of learned behaviour. Thus, if a worker is appreciated when he performs a task well, he is likely to continue to perform the task in that way.

CORRECT ANSWER:

Facial expression and body movements give indication of receiver's response to communication

Explanation:

- When understanding is shared or is common, the communication is effective.
- Effective communication implies that the message conveyed has been received and understood, as expected.
- The receiver's responses including his facial expressions and body movement, may give some clue as to how he may be receiving the message.
- If the communication is relayed through intermediaries, every intermediary is a potential source of distortion. Therefore, as far as possible communicate directly and not through someone else.

- ☐ Counsellor should avoid judgmental statements
- ☐ Argument is the best approach to deal with an argumentative client in the process of counselling.
- ☐ Counsellor should be self-centred and should demonstrate his proficiency in the subject
- ☐ Counsellor should be firm in his ideas and ensured that the client accepts his views irrespective of objections of the clients
- ☐ All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Counsellor should avoid judgmental statements

Explanation:

- A good counsellor should be non-judgmental. He should be willing to accept the fact that, given help and encouragement, most people have the inherent capacity to understand and solve their own problems. Such a counsellor would convey to the client his genuineness, understanding and acceptance of the client as a unique individual.
- A good counsellor knows the importance of completely avoiding judgmental statements because they put the client in a defensive position.
- He also meticulously avoids arguing because arguments will not solve the client's problem.
- The counsellor has to be "other-centred". He will have to see the problems from the point of view of the client.

- ☐ Vestibule training
- ☐ Mentoring
- ☐ Simulation
- ☐ T Group
- ☐ In-basket exercises

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

T Group

Explanation:

Sensitivity training, also called T-groups or laboratory training, seeks to help individuals become aware of – sensitive to – themselves, their needs, values, attitude, and behaviour with the help of others in the group. The programme is unstructured and unplanned. When the group meets, there will be no agenda and no leader. The members of the group will gradually begin to interact, giving expression to their thoughts on what is supposed to happen, etc. and also on what they should do in that situation.

Q 18. Why is ability to maintain equanimity in situations of crisis is needed?

- ☐ Crisis will be averted
- ☐ One can avoid crisis the next time around
- ☐ One can issue clear orders
- ☐ Crisis will cause minimum damage
- ☐ Mind can search for appropriate actions to overcome the difficult situations

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Mind can search for appropriate actions to overcome the difficult situations

Explanation:

Ability to maintain equanimity (emotional balance) in situations of crisis is needed so that the brain and mind can search for appropriate actions to overcome the difficult situations.

Lack of equanimity may lead to extremes of anger or depression or panic, none of which are helpful for clear thinking and exploration of available options. Clear thinking becomes a casualty even in cases of ecstatic elation. That is therefore, as bad as too much of anger and despondency.

- ☐ Commitment to objectives is related to outcomes from efforts put in
- ☐ The expenditure of physical and mental effort at work is as natural as play or rest
- ☐ An average worker has little capacity for creative problem solving
- ☐ The average worker does not inherently dislike work
- ☐ External control and threats of punishment are not the only means for regulating efforts at work

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

An average worker has little capacity for creative problem solving

Explanation:

Theory X assumptions are:

An average human being has an inherent dislike of work and will avoid it if he can. Therefore, workers must be coerced, controlled, directed and threatened with punishment to get them to make adequate efforts towards achievement of organisational goals.

An average human being prefers to be directed, does not like to take responsibility, has little ambition and wants security above all.

An average worker has little capacity for creative problem solving, is inherently self-centred and, by nature, resistant to change.

Q 20. Choose the correct option from below with regards to distortion in communication.

- ☐ Distortion can result in communication gap
- ☐ Distortion refers to summary of communication
- ☐ Distortion is helpful when there is too much information to be communicated
- ☐ Only options 'a' and 'c' are correct
- ☐ All of above are correct

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Distortion can result in communication gap

Explanation:

Every communication has problems. If the communication is relayed through intermediaries, every intermediary is a potential source of distortion. Therefore, as far as possible communicate directly and not through someone else.

Distortions also occur because there is too much information to be processed and communicated. The overload problem is sought to be met, often unconsciously, by omission (not processing the information at all), queueing (process in parts, missing the total picture), selectivity (choosing information that one considers more relevant), etc.

- ☐ Jayant and Yasim are data entry operators. Jayant has to go for a function and leave the office early. Their supervisor asks Yasim to complete the pending data entry work of Jayant.
- ☐ Nitin is a customer relationship manager of a company who is authorised to receive and dispose the complaints from the customers. He is proceeding on 10 days leave and the management asks Viren, the assistant manager of operations, to receive and dispose the complaints during his absence.
- ☐ Himesh is a driver of the company. He was asked by the manager of the admin department to collect parcel which contains an expensive laptop from the Courier office.
- ☐ All of the above are examples of delegation of authority.
- ☐ Only A and B are examples of delegation of authority

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Nitin is a customer relationship manager of a company who is authorised to receive and dispose the complaints from the customers. He is proceeding on 10 days leave and the management asks Viren, the assistant manager of operations, to receive and dispose the complaints during his absence.

Explanation:

Delegation is the process by which a manager passes on to his sub-ordinate, the authority to make decisions and the responsibility to achieve certain results. Instruction to perform a certain task is not delegation.

Q 25. Choose the correct option with regards to the purpose of succession planning in an organization.

Q 25. Choose the correct option with regards to the purpose of succession planning in an organization.

- ☐ Identify people who can take higher responsibility at senior level
- ☐ To ensure rehabilitation of retiring employees
- ☐ To plan in advance the timely payment of retirement benefits
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ None of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Identify people who can take higher responsibility at senior level

Explanation:

The idea of succession planning is that the vacancies that arise due to retirements, transfers and / or promotions at important middle and senior levels are filled up without delay.

The succession plan will identify people from within the organisation, who will be ready to take over when the vacancy arises and prepare them to do so. The purpose is to ensure that there should not be a vacuum at those important levels.

Q 26. Select the correct option from the following, with respect to Quality of Life of an executive of an organization.

- ☐ Experience at work do not affect quality of life
- ☐ Good quality of life is a major contributor of good health
- ☐ Quality of life depends mainly to availability of material comforts
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Only options a and b

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Good quality of life is a major contributor of good health

Explanation:

Quality of life (QL) does not depend on the availability of material comforts. Experience at work affects Quality of life.

If experience at work is dissatisfying, the consequent emotional disturbances will carry through to other activities in the family and socially, affecting Quality of life.

Q 27. Select the correct option with regard to the concept of Leadership Continuum Model, after reading the statements carefully.

- ☐ When the participation of subordinate is highest the leader takes a smaller role
- ☐ Here the leader has no role at the stage of delegation
- ☐ It classifies the leadership style according to the extent of freedom given to the subordinate in decision making
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Only options 'a' and 'c'

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only options 'a' and 'c'

Explanation:

The Hersey and Blanchard concept follows closely the Leadership Continuum model proposed by Schmidt and Tannenbaum, which classifies the style according to the extent of participation or freedom given to the subordinate, in decision making.

At one end of the continuum the style is where the participation by the subordinate is low. The participation increases as one moves up on the continuum till at the other end, participation is highest and the leader takes a smaller role.

Q 29. Which of the following are the characteristics of an empowered employee?

- ☐ Make demands on management.
- ☐ Arrogant and aggressive.
- ☐ Disregard for rules and regulations.
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Only options (a) and (c)

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only options (a) and (c)

Explanation:

An empowered employee does what he thinks needs to be done in the interest of the organisation, even if he does not have formal authority. Or he may chase people who have authority, to get them to do.

An empowered employee is not inhibited by formalities of position, authority or function. He does not consider himself bound by rules and procedures.

Empowered employees make demands on management.
