Q 1. Identify the CORRECT statement/s regarding career development.

- ☐ Programs designed for career development are most necessary for retention of employees
- ☐ Programs designed for career development are usually applicable uniformly to all employees within the organisation
- ☐ Job rotation is considered an activity for achieving career development
- ☐ Both a & c
- ☐ All of the above

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Both a & c

Explanation:

When employees join organisations at the start of their careers, none of them are likely to have planned to stay in the same job for the rest of their lives. They expect to be able to learn and grow and move to different jobs that require higher level skills. Organisations, aware of these expectations, also chalk out career paths for employees to travel through. "Job rotation" referred to earlier, is a method adopted by organisations, whereby opportunities are given to the employees to demonstrate their potential for growth.

Career paths may provide opportunities for employees to make choices of careers. Professionals like lawyers, engineers or accountants may prefer to stay on jobs that help them sharpen their professional skills, even if the vacancies for vertical growth may be limited.

- ☐ Recruitment
- ☐ Long range planning
- ☐ Employee selection
- ☐ Resource analysis
- ☐ Business plan

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Resource analysis

Explanation:

Resource analysis refers to the process of identifying the number and type of people, skills, and other human resources required for an organization to function efficiently. It helps in workforce planning by assessing the current capabilities and forecasting future needs, ensuring that the right people with the right skills are available.

- ☐ Only 1 & 3
- ☐ Only 1,2 & 4
- ☐ All 1,2,3 & 4

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 1 & 4

Explanation:

HRM recognises that the present-day worker is what is known as Knowledge worker. The contribution that a worker makes to an organisation is based more on his knowledge and expertise than on his mechanical and motor skills.

Knowledge workers enjoy considerable autonomy in how and how much of their knowledge and their skills they use at work. A person can increase his capacity through learning and experience. The manager's responsibility is to utilise the knowledge of a worker to the best extent possible.

Q 4. _____most significantly represent the standard of right and wrong for an organisation.

- ☐ Regulations
- ☐ Practice
- ☐ Principles
- ☐ Rules
- ☐ Values

🚫 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Values

Explanation:

Consistency and uniformity of behaviour become easier when the rationale for such behaviour is made known to the person concerned. These rationales are in the nature of values and philosophy of the company's management. When values and philosophy are known and shared by all, the emerging behaviour will tend to be appropriate to the ends determined by those values and philosophy.

Members of a community quite easily and naturally conform to the accepted norms of behaviour of that community. The norms are absorbed and internalised during existence in that community. Behaviour with regard to monogamy, polygamy, obedience to the law, not coveting the other's possessions, acceptance of one's station in life, being decent etc., emerge not because of legalities (what the law states), but because of proprieties, (what the values dictate).

- ☐ Only 3
- ☐ Only 1
- ☐ Only 2
- ☐ Both 1 & 2
- ☐ Both 1 & 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 2

Explanation:

One of the earliest writers on management was Max Weber (1864 – 1920).

The essential components of a formal bureaucratic organisation, as described by Weber, are:

- i. Division of labour, meaning that at every level and position, the tasks to be performed are to be clearly determined and defined
- ii. Hierarchy of positions, meaning that the chain of command is clearly defined and understood along with Responsibility and Accountability at every level
- iii. Uniformity of rules relating to conduct and discipline, which would apply uniformly to everyone.
- iv. Impersonality, meaning that individual personal considerations would not apply when dealing with work and people.

Q 6. _____ is considered the most critical resource in an organization.

- ☐ Time
- ☐ Money
- ☐ Manpower
- ☐ Material
- ☐ Technology

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Manpower

Explanation:

The first source for availability of people is the organisation itself. For this purpose, the HR department should have what is known as an HR Inventory or Manpower Inventory.

The expression "human resource" refers to People. It is the most critical resource in an organisation. The utilisation of all other resources depends on this resource. None of the other resources can achieve anything by themselves. They will contribute only in the manner that they are utilised by the people handling them.

It is also the most difficult resource to manage. They have their own identity and ideas as to what needs to be done and how it needs to be done. They have skills, which may be unique. For these and many other similar reasons, the management of Human Resources is of crucial significance in every organisation.

- ☐ Distinctive
- ☐ Uniform
- ☐ Special
- ☐ Characteristic
- ☐ Generalization

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Generalization

Explanation:

In the context of communication, stereotypes refer to generalizations made about a group of people based on preconceived notions or assumptions.

All of us have stereotype ideas about other people and tend to behave on that basis.

"Women are poor drivers" is one such common stereotype. There are similar generalisations about ethnic and other distinct groups like some are thought of as more intelligent, some are less reliable, some are very loyal, some are very self-centred, and so on none of these generalisations are valid, but they do colour our views of people and affect the interpretations of what they say or do.

- ☐ If the alternatives for decision making are data based
- ☐ If the choices available for decision making can be evaluated on economic consideration
- ☐ Options 'b' and 'c'
- ☐ All of these

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

If the considerations for decision making are based on values

Explanation:

Making choice between alternatives is called "decision making". All decisions are not dilemmas.

If the alternatives have equal weight in choosing, there could be a dilemma. But it would become an ethical dilemma only if the considerations are based on values. Values are not subject to measurement.

- ☐ Transfers are used as part of career plan of an employee
- ☐ Transfers always involve significant change in the emoluments
- ☐ Transfer always involves change in status of the employee
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Only options a & c

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Transfers are used as part of career plan of an employee

Explanation:

Transfer refers to the movement of an employee from one job to another within the organisation. It may or may not involve any significant change in the emoluments and status. Transfer is one of the methods of filling up a vacancy that arises in an office.

Transfers may be done also as part of the career plan for individual employees, with a view to provide them wider experience.

Q 24. Which of the following is an example of open system? 1. Organisation 2. Clock 3. Refrigerator

- ☐ Only 1
- ☐ Only 2
- ☐ Only 3
- ☐ 1 and 2
- ☐ 2 and 3

🚫 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 1

Explanation:

An open system receives inputs from the environment, transforms the inputs into outputs and sends the outputs to the environment.

An organisation is an open system. It receives inputs like people (which will include their skills), capital, materials, equipments as well as information from outside for being converted into outputs to be sent out to the outside environment. Outputs would be products, services, profits and satisfactions.

The Clock and Refrigerator are closed systems.

Q 25. Read the following statements with respect to the term "collective bargaining" and choose the correct option.

- ☐ Collective bargaining provides unilateral power to the employees for negotiations
- ☐ Agreements reached through collective bargaining are put in the form of written contracts
- ☐ Collective bargaining facilitates interference of 3rd party agencies like government for support of negotiations
- ☐ All of the above are correct statements
- ☐ Options A and B are correct statements

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Agreements reached through collective bargaining are put in the form of written contracts

Explanation:

Collective bargaining is the process by which the terms and conditions of employment of workers are negotiated and regulated by agreements between the representatives of the employees (unions) and the employers.

Negotiations take place and when an agreement is reached, the terms of the agreement are put into the form of written contracts.

The underlying idea of collective bargaining is that the relationship between employers and employees should not be determined unilaterally by either party. Nor should a third party be allowed to interfere.

Q 26. Which of the following scenarios suspect 'Conflict of interest'.

- ☐ Posting comments about the weaknesses of the company where the individual is employed
- ☐ Offering paid services during time off to the customer of the company
- ☐ Person who has provided the lowest quote, is awarded the work after tendering process, is a close relative of the deciding authority
- ☐ All of these
- ☐ Only options a and c

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Person who has provided the lowest quote, is awarded the work after tendering process, is a close relative of the deciding authority

Explanation:

In the context of corruption in Government, it is suggested that one should not be part of a decision favouring another person, who is a relation or a close friend. Officers are also advised not to mix with people with whom there are official dealings. It might seem that persons in authority and their families have to exclude themselves from social activity except with those similarly placed.

All connections arising out of childhood contacts or membership of clubs and family can raise suspicions relating to 'conflict of interest' and possible misdemeanour.

- ☐ Monetary benefit
- ☐ Threat or fear in the leader
- ☐ Trust and confidence in the leader
- ☐ All of these
- ☐ Only options a and c

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Trust and confidence in the leader

Explanation:

Leadership is the ability to influence other people. People believe that the leaders know the ways to get to these satisfactions. They also believe that the leaders have their well-being at heart. There is thus trust and confidence and therefore, they follow.

Leadership is concerned with obtaining willing co-operation of the followers, not under conditions of threat or fear which thugs and dacoits do.

- ☐ They are technically less savvy than Generation X
- ☐ They show a higher level of caution and pragmatism than their parents
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Only options 'b' and 'c'

🚫 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

They embrace diversity faster than Generation X

Explanation:

Generation Y are incredibly sophisticated, technically savvy, immune to traditional marketing and sales pitches, "having been exposed to them and seen it all".

They are racially and ethnically diverse, much more segmented as an audience and flexible in fashions and styles. They are often raised in dual income families and more involved in family purchases. They embrace diversity easily.

Q 36. Identify from the following, the correct option with respect to the term "linking pins" in an organization.

- ☐ They act as connectors between different teams in an organization.
- ☐ They act as a link between the organization and the consumers.
- ☐ They collect feedback from customers for product and service improvements.
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Only options a and c

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

They act as connectors between different teams in an organization.

Explanation:

The common members provide the link between the two levels of teams. They communicate to their teams the decisions, problems and concerns of the other teams, thus building better understanding. Such common members are called linking pins, as they link different levels of teams.

Through linking pins, the entire organisation can be connected. If the office is big, there will be teams within each department and the departmental heads will be the linking pins for the top team.

Q 37. _____ means acceptance of one's position and trying to do one's best therein, without being over-anxious about the consequences thereof on oneself, either as reward or as punishment.

- ☐ Equanimity
- ☐ Assertiveness
- ☐ Contentment
- ☐ Other-centeredness

Q 38. From amongst the methods of job evaluation, given below _____ which are presents the least difficulty.

- ☐ Ranking method
- ☐ Factor comparison method
- ☐ Point method
- ☐ Classification method
- ☐ None of the above

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Classification method

Explanation:

Of all the methods of job evaluation, only the classification method presents least difficulty.

All the other methods are very cumbersome, because there are thousands of different jobs and it is impractical to compare and rank all the jobs.

Even the classification method may not be found acceptable by the parties concerned.

Q 44. What is the first source of recruitment for an organisation?

- ☐ Recruitment agency
- ☐ Advertisement
- ☐ Educational institutes
- ☐ Employees within the organisation
- ☐ None of the Above

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Employees within the organisation

Explanation:

The first source for availability of people is the organisation itself.

For this purpose, the HR department should have what is known as an HR Inventory or Manpower Inventory. This would be a complete list of the existing employees.

Q 45. _____ is essential for senior levels to know what is happening at operational levels and to enable them to exercise appropriate controls.

- ☐ Upward communication
- ☐ Downward communication
- ☐ Lateral communication
- ☐ Unilateral communication
- ☐ All of the above

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Upward communication

Explanation:

Upward communication is essential for senior levels to know what is happening at operational levels and to enable them to exercise appropriate controls. Upward communication may get distorted because:

- the communication passes through several levels, and at every level some distortion unavoidably takes place,
- the information will be filtered in such a way that unpleasant information may be kept back and only that information may go up, which reflects favourably on operations

Q 49. Which of the following is an example of non-monetary reward?

- ☐ Increments
- ☐ Transport facility
- ☐ Residential telephone
- ☐ Nomination for seminars
- ☐ None of the above

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Nomination for seminars

Explanation:

Non-monetary rewards have infinite variety. Some are job related like higher responsibility, shift to a position or place of choice, duties with more visibility.

Some are not job related, like mention in company bulletins, press handouts, gifts to family, photographs in publicity literature, nominations for seminars, selection to address conventions, authority to represent company in negotiations or important meetings, holidays in a place of choice, admission to privileged rosters, (sometimes called clubs), invitation to lunch/dinner with V.I.Ps, and so on.

Being made a role model is a big reward.
