Q 1. A team means _____. 1. Roles working on different tasks 2. Roles reporting to same superior role 3. Roles reporting to different superior role

1 and 2

1 and 3

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 2

Explanation:

All roles reporting to the same superior role will be collectively called as a team, a section, a department or any other name that reflects the commonness in that group. They may also be called Branches, Divisions, Zones, Regions, etc.

In a team, all the members would be expected to achieve an objective together, like in a football team. Separate jobs may be allotted to the team members by consensus between themselves or by the team leader or captain.

Q 2. Identify the correct statement with respect to 'Reward System'.

Reward is a motivational tool

Rewards give satisfaction

Punishment is a part of the reward system

All of the above

Only 'a' and 'b'

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

Theories on the motivations of people suggest that individuals act in order that they may get pleasure or satisfaction and avoid pain or dissatisfaction. Anything that gives satisfaction (pleasure) is a reward and anything that gives dissatisfaction (pain) is a punishment.

A reward system usually includes punishments to prevent undesirable behaviour.

Q 3. Name the science that deals with the use of resources in an organization in order to achieve the purposes of the organization.

Management is the science that deals with the use of resources in an organisation in order to achieve the purposes of the organisation.

Q 4. Nobody can motivate a worker, except _____.

himself

his friends

his family

his manager

his Co-workers

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

himself

Explanation:

Motivation is an internal impulse. Nobody can motivate a worker, except himself. The manager can only create situations whereby the worker may become motivated.

Q 5. Select the correct option from below, with regards to "authenticity of an Individual."

Polite and sweet-sounding persons are not necessarily authentic

Ill-tempered persons are unlikely to be authentic

An authentic person often seen as attempting to self-aggrandisement

Only 'a' and 'b'

All of above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Polite and sweet-sounding persons are not necessarily authentic

Explanation:

This characteristic refers to the genuineness or the bonafides in the behaviour of the members. When people are not seen as authentic, there is suspicion and lack of trust.

Ill-tempered persons can be authentic. Polite and sweet-sounding persons are not necessarily authentic.

If someone is not authentic, he may be trying to manipulate the situation to achieve what he wants, through false statements, misdirection and misinformation. Nobody likes to be manipulated. It conveys a message of disrespect. It is also an attempt at self-aggrandisement. Those who are manipulated may even turn hostile.

Q 6. Which type of training is very effective to reduce dysfunctional conflict and strengthen group cohesiveness.

Vestibule training

Mentoring

Simulation

T Group

In-basket exercises

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

T Group

Explanation:

Sensitivity training, also called T-groups or laboratory training, seeks to help individuals become aware of – sensitive to – themselves, their needs, values, attitude, and behaviour with the help of others in the group. The programme is unstructured and unplanned. When the group meets, there will be no agenda and no leader. The members of the group will gradually begin to interact, giving expression to their thoughts on what is supposed to happen, etc. and also on what they should do in that situation.

This type of training sessions can be very effective in providing insights into oneself and improving communication and interpersonal skills.

Q 7. What does the communication which conveys a message consisting of words is called?

Verbal communication

Oral communication
Organisational communication
Non verbal communication
Written communication

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Verbal communication

Explanation:

Verbal communication is any communication that uses words to share information with others. These words may be both spoken and written.

Q 8. Choose the correct option from below, with respect to 'Effective Communication'.
Facial expression and body movements give indication of receiver's response to communication
Communication is most effective when it is relayed through intermediaries
Extensive use of technical and professional words contributes to clarity of communication
All of the above
None of the above

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Facial expression and body movements give indication of receiver's response to communication

Explanation:

- When understanding is shared or is common, the communication is effective.
- Effective communication implies that the message conveyed has been received and understood, as expected.
- The receiver's responses including his facial expressions and body movement, may give some clue as to how he may be receiving the message.
- If the communication is relayed through intermediaries, every intermediary is a potential source of distortion. Therefore, as far as possible communicate directly and not through someone else.
- The language used should be simple, keeping in mind the knowledge levels of the receivers.

Q 9. Complete the following statement: Management is the science that deals with

Avoiding losses
Making profits
Achieving individuals' goals in an organization

Keeping costs under control

Use of resources in order to achieve the purposes of the organization

Q 12. What does the term 'Division of Labour' means, according to Max Weber's ideal bureaucracy theory?

Work is to be carried out by managers only

Work will be given on random basis

Work is to be carried out by lower levels only

Work will be given as preferred for workers basis

At every level and position, the tasks to be performed are to be clearly defined

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

At every level and position, the tasks to be performed are to be clearly defined

Explanation:

The essential components of a formal bureaucratic organisation, as described by Weber, are Division of labour, meaning that at every level and position, the tasks to be performed are to be clearly determined and defined.

Q 13. Identify the leadership style which will be most effective in an emergency situation.

1.9 style

9.1 style

9.9 style

Related style

Integrated style

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

9.1 style

Explanation:

The 9.1 types have very high concern for task but very low concern for people. They are hard taskmasters, expect implicit obedience to instructions, show little concern for problems and feelings of people, and are interested in people only as instruments for production.

If the situation is one of emergency or crisis, like a building being on fire or a ship sinking, one person has to take charge and issue orders to everybody else. There is no time for discussion and asking for opinions and options.

In such emergency, someone has to take charge. Only 9.1 will be effective here.

Q 14. What does the job analysis help to recognize? 1. Career prospectus of the employees 2. Salary to be paid 3. Capabilities required to do a job

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

1 and 2

2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 3

Explanation:

Job analysis is an important step in HR planning. While deciding on posting a person to a role, his capabilities for performing on that role must be assessed.

For this, the capabilities necessary for the jobs to be done in that role need to be known. Job analysis helps to identify the capabilities required to do the jobs in a role.

Q 15. Choose the correct option from below with regards to distortion in communication.

Distortion can result in communication gap

Distortion refers to summary of communication

Distortion is helpful when there is too much information to be communicated

Only options 'a' and 'c' are correct

All of above are correct

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Distortion can result in communication gap

Explanation:

Every communication has problems. If the communication is relayed through intermediaries, every intermediary is a potential source of distortion. Therefore, as far as possible communicate directly and not through someone else.

Distortions also occur because there is too much information to be processed and communicated. The overload problem is sought to be met, often unconsciously, by omission (not processing the information at all), queueing (process in parts, missing the total picture), selectivity (choosing information that one considers more relevant), etc.

Q 16. Which of the following factors help in improving quality of work life of employees in an organization? 1. Overtime 2. Safety precautions 3. Routine health check-up 4. Air conditioning 3 and 4

At the sender's end while coding
At the receiver's end when receiving
All of the above
Options 'a' and 'b'

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

If the idea in the sender's mind and the idea created in the receiver's mind are the same, communication is effective. In practice, several things happen during the process of communication, because of which, the meaning created in the receiver's mind is different from what was in the sender's mind.

The reasons are many. They are called Barriers to effective communications.

They may happen at the stage of coding, during the transmission in the medium or channel or at the receiver's end.

Explanation:

The expression 'human resource' refers to People. It is the most critical resource in an organisation. The utilisation of all other resources depends on this resource. None of the other resources can achieve anything by themselves.

They will contribute only in the manner that they are utilised by the people handling them. It is also the most difficult resource to manage.

Q 9. What is the likely remedial action to be initiated by organization, in case of an employee is often found to be indulging in criminal activities like fraud and theft?

Warning

Censure

Dismissal

Decrement

With holding of promotion

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Dismissal

Explanation:

Managers come across problem people. They have to be helped to improve. Or else they have to be removed from the organisation. Normally, removal or dismissal is resorted to:

- if the problem is seen to be beyond correction like alcoholism or persistent misbehaviour or
- if the problem is of a criminal nature like committing a fraud or theft or
- if it is a case of unacceptable indiscipline

Unskilled labour
Qualified labour
Distant work locations
All of the above
None of the above

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Qualified labour

Explanation:

If the sub-ordinates are qualified, capable and committed to the tasks assigned to them, a manager may be able to manage a relatively large number of sub-ordinates.

The experience and abilities of the manager also determine the span.

Q 11. Which of the following option/s is considered non-ethical? 1. Consulting fees 2. Kickbacks 3. Commission on non-business transactions

Only 1
1 and 2
1 and 3
2 and 3
1,2 and 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
2 and 3

Explanation:

The norms of behaviour (values) sanctioned by society distinguish between a business deal and a non-business transaction. Profit is proper only in business otherwise it is unethical.

Following are some of the items included in the code of ethics of some firms as strictly prohibited.

- Non-adherence to safety and quality standards

Q 12. Identify the factors which are considered as real motivators as per job enrichment related to Herzberg's theory of motivation.

Relocation

Restructuring

Recognition

All of these

None of these

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Recognition

Explanation:

One of the ways of making jobs help in development is known as "job enrichment." Job enrichment implies adding elements to the existing job which makes it more complete or more responsible.

Job enrichment is related to Herzberg's theory of motivation in which factors such as challenge, achievement, recognition and responsibility are seen as real motivators.

Q 13. Refer to the following questions and identify which of them will reflect an ethical action if answered in the negative.

Will I be held accountable?

Will I be excused?

Will the company protect me?

Will I feel bad to admit it in public?

Will it ever come to light?

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Will I feel bad to admit it in public?

Explanation:

Ethics deals with issues of right and wrong. The principles of right conduct are not always explicitly stated. They are implicitly known.

Individuals find different ways to resolve ethical dilemmas. No choice is fully justifiable. What is done is to justify the choice to oneself with a statement of rationalisation. It is disturbing if one is forced to do "wrong". The rationalised statements may help to reduce the disturbance.

Q 14. What is the ability to understand abstract/general ideas to apply to specific situations in organization is known as?

Human skills

Design skills

Conceptual skills

Motivational skills

Technical skills

UnAttempted

Q 28. Which of the following approach does not emphasize on the importance of formal structure, hierarchy of management, technical requirements and assumption of rational behaviour?

Contingency approach

Classical approach
Behavioral approach
Systems approach
Human relationship approach

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Human relationship approach

Explanation:

The Human Relations approach made the following important contributions to management thought:

- Organisations are social entities in addition to being technical entities.
- Rational economic assumptions about human behaviour were inadequate to explain behaviour at work.
- Informal work groups exist in organisations, with affiliations different from the formal work groups.
- The understanding of informal work group culture is crucial to understanding behaviour of workers at work.
- Productivity is intimately related to workers' satisfaction.
- Workers' motivation is not based merely on economic considerations, but sentiment and need for social affiliation also play important roles.
- Workers' participation is important especially in communication and decision – making.

Q 29. Which of the following statements describes role of middle managers? 1. Determine how the contact is to be managed 2. Take decision regarding company vision management 3. Take decision regarding business expansion strategy

Only 3
Only 1
2 and 3
1 and 2
Only 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only 1

Explanation:

The middle manager's role has traditionally been one of integrating top management policy with activities of their subordinates. The focus therefore, had been to supervise activities of subordinates, control results, solve problems and so on.

It would be the role of middle managers to:

- identify the contact points with the customer
- determine how the contact is to be managed
- determine what standards of (quantity and quality) have to be maintained
- analyse operations and processes
- visualise the possible errors, what may go wrong
- find ways of avoiding errors
- find ways of compensating for the errors, if they occur
- find ways to enhance quality standards

Q 30. From the following, which statement/s show qualities of a good counsellor?

Counsellor should avoid judgmental statements

Argument is the best approach to deal with an argumentative client in the process of counselling.

Counsellor should be self-centred and should demonstrate his proficiency in the subject

Counsellor should be firm in his ideas and ensured that the client accepts his views irrespective of objections of the clients

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Counsellor should avoid judgmental statements

Explanation:

- A good counsellor should be non-judgmental. He should be willing to accept the fact that, given help and encouragement, most people have the inherent capacity to understand and solve their own problems. Such a counsellor would convey to the client his genuineness, understanding and acceptance of the client as a unique individual.
- A good counsellor knows the importance of completely avoiding judgmental statements because they put the client in a defensive position.
- He also meticulously avoids arguing because arguments will not solve the client's problem.
- The counsellor has to be "other-centred". He will have to see the problems from the point of view of the client.

Q 31. Identify the incorrect statement from the following with respect to Weber's concept of Bureaucracy.

It is still relevant concept in today's organization

It has acquired a negative reputation for inefficiency and rigidity

It rejects rational approaches to managing organizations

It is based on rules and procedures rather than personal preference and judgement

Only options 'a' and 'd' are correct

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only options 'a' and 'd' are correct

Explanation:

Weber described a formal organisation as a "Legal – Rational" system based on precisely defined and organised "across-the-board" competencies of various offices and individuals. He called such a system a Bureaucracy.

The need for ensuring that uniform treatment is provided to all customers makes bureaucracy, with clear rules and procedures, authority and centralisation, inevitable.

The same considerations apply to treatment of employees also. Specialisation in tasks helps speedy and accurate performance of tasks as well as development of expertise.

Q 32. Complete the following statement: 'Strategic management allows an organization to be more _____.'

Reactive

Coherent

Complacent

Authoritarian

Proactive

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Proactive

Explanation:

Strategic management allows an organization to be more proactive than reactive in shaping its own future; it allows an organization to initiate and influence (rather than just respond to) activities and thus to exert control over its own destiny.

Q 33. After studying the following scenarios carefully, select the option which can be considered as the correct example of "delegation of authority".

Jayant and Yasim are data entry operators. Jayant has to go for a function and leave the office early. Their supervisor asks Yasim to complete the pending data entry work of Jayant.

Nitin is a customer relationship manager of a company who is authorised to receive and dispose the complaints from the customers. He is proceeding on 10 days leave and the management asks Viren, the assistant manager of operations, to receive and dispose the complaints during his absence.

Himesh is a driver of the company. He was asked by the manager of the admin department to collect parcel which contains an expensive laptop from the Courier office.

All of the above are examples of delegation of authority.

Only A and B are examples of delegation of authority

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Nitin is a customer relationship manager of a company who is authorised to receive and dispose the complaints from the customers. He is proceeding on 10 days leave and the management asks Viren, the assistant manager of operations, to receive and dispose the complaints during his absence.

Explanation:

Delegation is the process by which a manager passes on to his sub-ordinate, the authority to make decisions and the responsibility to achieve certain results. Instruction to perform a certain task is not delegation.

Q 34. Study and Identify the correct statements from the following. 1. Policy lays down the general guideline 2. Rules lay down what is permissible and what is not permissible 3.

Identify people who can take higher responsibility at senior level

To ensure rehabilitation of retiring employees

To plan in advance the timely payment of retirement benefits

All of the above

None of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Identify people who can take higher responsibility at senior level

Explanation:

The idea of succession planning is that the vacancies that arise due to retirements, transfers and / or promotions at important middle and senior levels are filled up without delay.

The succession plan will identify people from within the organisation, who will be ready to take over when the vacancy arises and prepare them to do so. The purpose is to ensure that there should not be a vacuum at those important levels.

Q 40. The term/s which refers to the aspects of good and evil, rights and wrongs is/are

_____. a. Values b. Ethics c. Morality

Only 1

2 and 3

1 and 3

1 and 2

1, 2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

1, 2 and 3

Explanation:

The words “ethics” and “morality” would seem to be synonymous. Both refer to the aspects of good and evil, rights and wrongs. What is moral, is apparently also virtuous. What is immoral is wrong and improper.

Ethics is related to values. Values are standards of right and wrong. Individuals have values.

Q 12. Read the following statements with respect to the term “collective bargaining” and choose the correct option.

Collective bargaining provides unilateral power to the employees for negotiations

Agreements reached through collective bargaining are put in the form of written contracts

Collective bargaining facilitates interference of 3rd party agencies like government for support of negotiations

All of the above are correct statements

Options A and B are correct statements

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:

Agreements reached through collective bargaining are put in the form of written contracts

Explanation:

Collective bargaining is the process by which the terms and conditions of employment of workers are negotiated and regulated by agreements between the representatives of the employees (unions) and the employers.

Negotiations take place and when an agreement is reached, the terms of the agreement are put into the form of written contracts.

The underlying idea of collective bargaining is that the relationship between employers and employees should not be determined unilaterally by either party. Nor should a third party be allowed to interfere.

Q 13. Which of the following scenarios suspect ‘Conflict of interest’.

Posting comments about the weaknesses of the company where the individual is employed

Offering paid services during time off to the customer of the company

Person who has provided the lowest quote, is awarded the work after tendering process, is a close relative of the deciding authority

All of these

Only options a and c

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Person who has provided the lowest quote, is awarded the work after tendering process, is a close relative of the deciding authority

Explanation:

In the context of corruption in Government, it is suggested that one should not be part of a decision favouring another person, who is a relation or a close friend. Officers are also advised not to mix with people with whom there are official dealings. It might seem that persons in authority and their families have to exclude themselves from social activity except with those similarly placed.

All connections arising out of childhood contacts or membership of clubs and family can raise suspicions relating to 'conflict of interest' and possible misdemeanour.

Q 14. The following statement refers to _____ as per Fayol's Administration Theory. "A person should receive instructions from only one superior."

Unity of command

Order

Integrity

Discipline

Unity of direction

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Unity of command

Explanation:

As per Unity of Command a person should receive instructions from only one superior.

Otherwise authority will be undermined and discipline likely to be threatened.

Q 15. Carefully read the following statements with respect to human resource management and select the correct option.

Human resources depreciate in value over a period of time

All human resources in an organization to be treated in the same manner uniformly

All individuals are unique and complex in nature and are of standard specification

All out the above statements are correct
None of the above statements are correct

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
None of the above statements are correct

Explanation:

Human Resource Management (HRM) is based on the understanding that every individual is complex, endowed with the potential to enhance skills and become a more valuable asset as well as having, at the same time, the capacity to withdraw his skills from work and become a liability. No person can be looked upon as having standard specifications, like other resources have. They cannot be treated in the same manner uniformly. Each person needs to be handled according to his unique personality.

Unlike other resources, human resources may not depreciate at all. On the contrary they can appreciate.

Q 16. Which of the following factors made managements realise that people could not be treated as mere means of production? 1.Trade unions became very active to seek better prospects and benefits for the workers 2.Shortage of human resources 3.Economic recession

Only 1
Only 2
Only 3
2 and 3
1 and 2

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only 1

Explanation:

There were four main developments that made managements realise that people could not be treated as mere means of production.

- Governments actively intervened through legislations, laying down minimum wages etc., to ensure that workers are not exploited.
- Trade unions became very active to seek better prospects and benefits for the workers.
- Various studies like those of Elton Mayo revealed the complex nature of human beings who are influenced by social factors more than by working conditions and incentives, because of which traditional methods of treating them like materials of production became inappropriate.

- Developments in behavioural sciences, which contributed a great deal to the understanding of complex issues like personality, motivation, leadership, communication and so on.

3. Job enrichment

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

2 and 3

1, 2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 3

Explanation:

There are three ways a manager can redesign an employee's job: job enrichment, job enlargement and job rotation. Job enrichment provides an employee with more tasks to do as part of their job as well as the responsibility and authority needed to complete those additional tasks.

Q 20. Which of the following acts of a leader enhances the self-worth of his followers? 1. Acknowledgement of performance 2. Allotment of difficult task 3. Consulting on important issues

Only 1

2 and 3

1 and 3

1 and 2

1, 2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

1, 2 and 3

Explanation:

An ideal leader is a person who enhances the self-worth of his followers through acts like acknowledgement of performance, allotment of important or difficult tasks, consulting on important issues, listening to viewpoints (including grievances) etc. acquires power from his followers.

Q 21. Select the correct option with regard to the concept of Leadership Continuum Model, after reading the statements carefully.

When the participation of subordinate is highest the leader takes a smaller role

Here the leader has no role at the stage of delegation

It classifies the leadership style according to the extent of freedom given to the subordinate in decision making

All of the above

Only options 'a' and 'c'

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only options 'a' and 'c'

Explanation:

The Hersey and Blanchard concept follows closely the Leadership Continuum model proposed by Schmidt and Tannenbaum, which classifies the style according to the extent of participation or freedom given to the subordinate, in decision making.

At one end of the continuum the style is where the participation by the subordinate is low. The participation increases as one moves up on the continuum till at the other end, participation is highest and the leader takes a smaller role.

Q 22. Identify the correct statement from the following, with regard to the term "empathy".

Empathy means specifically expressing concern and sorrow over an incident

Empathy means that the counsellor understands exactly how the client feels in the situation

Empathy means counsellor fully agrees with feelings and opinions of the client

All of the above

Only statements a and c

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Empathy means that the counsellor understands exactly how the client feels in the situation

Explanation:

Empathy is the ability to see things as the other individual does. The client must have developed a particular feeling in the given situation, which must have given rise to the problem.

When the counsellor listens with this approach and interacts with this understanding he shows empathy.

Q 23. What does the process of finding right person for the right job is referred to as?

Transfers

Promotion

Placement

Recruitment

Appointment

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Placement

Explanation:

When a person is appointed after the selection process, an opinion would have been formed as to what kind of jobs he may be suitable for. After induction and orientation, the new employee would be sent to the job he was thought fit for.

This is the Placement process.

They want to delegate

Subordinates are not willing to accept responsibility

Subordinates do not respect the leaders competence

They do not have faith in their subordinates competence

They will not perceive subordinate development as their responsibility

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
They want to delegate

Explanation:

Leaders who allow participation by subordinates are:

- a showing concern for subordinate development
- b sharing their knowledge and skills with subordinates
- c expressing confidence and trust in subordinates to perform
- d relieving themselves of some burden, becoming free to attend to other tasks of importance

Q 33. Identify from the following, the correct option with respect to the term “linking pins” in an organization.

They act as connectors between different teams in an organization.

They act as a link between the organization and the consumers.

They collect feedback from customers for product and service improvements.

All of the above

Only options a and c

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

They act as connectors between different teams in an organization.

Explanation:

The common members provide the link between the two levels of teams. They communicate to their teams the decisions, problems and concerns of the other teams, thus building better understanding. Such common members are called linking pins, as they link different levels of teams.

Through linking pins, the entire organisation can be connected. If the office is big, there will be teams within each department and the departmental heads will be the linking pins for the top team.

Q 34. Which of the following refers to the degree to which members of a group are attracted to each other and motivated to stay in the group?

Status

Synergy

Openness

Cohesiveness

Job satisfaction

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Cohesiveness

Explanation:

A group is said to be cohesive when the members desire to continue to be in the group. The more cohesive a group, the better will be its ability to function effectively.

Success improves team cohesiveness, which is both the cause and the result of motivation to stay together, to belong.

Q 37. Which of the following training methodology specifically helps practicing interpersonal skills and getting insights into the dynamics of behaviour?

Study Tour
Role Play Lecture Syndicate Workshop

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER: Role Play

Explanation:

The role-play is a method in which the trainees are required to act out given roles in a given situation. Sometimes, they are given the script as in a stage play. Sometimes, the actors have to improvise the script on the spot. The situations may be related to employee-employer relationships, grievance handling, salesmanship, counselling, post-appraisal interview or a problem solving session. This method helps in practising interpersonal skills and getting insights into the dynamics of behaviour.

Q 39. Identify the correct scenario from below options, where the supervisor can have large span of control.

Work not of routine nature

Nature of work is highly skilled and technical.

High level of decentralization.

Responsibility of the subordinate not clearly defined.

Subordinates operate from places which are distant from the location of the supervisor who stop

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

High level of decentralization.

Explanation:

In an organisational structure, there is always a superior to whom sub-ordinates will report. The expression "Span of Control" is used to refer to the number of persons who report to any one superior. The term span of control is also known as Span of management, Span of supervision or the Span of authority.

In a highly decentralised set up the supervisor does not have to take too many decisions. This helps the supervisor to look after a large number of employees.

Q 44. Identify the correct option from the following which plays the role of internal communication in an organization. 1. Meetings 2. Bulletins 3. Consultations 4. Appraisal systems

1, 2, 3 and 4

2, 3 and 4

1 and 2

2 and 3

3 and 4

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

1 and 2

Explanation:

The leader has to ensure that the communication within his group is complete and timely.

Written circulars, bulletins or notice boards, and similar media are all useful to inform about schemes, plans, procedures etc.

In service organisations, however values and philosophies need to be communicated so that they are shared. These are best communicated:

- at meetings through discussions
- through experiences reflecting these values, which if not direct, could be captured on films
- by top management personnel explaining their mind

Q 45. Select the correct answer regarding why people follow a leader.

Monitory benefit

Threat or fear in the leader

Trust and confidence in the leader

All of these

Only options a and c

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Trust and confidence in the leader

Explanation:

Leadership is the ability to influence other people. People believe that the leaders know the ways to get to these satisfactions. They also believe that the leaders have their well-being at heart. There is thus trust and confidence and therefore, they follow.

Leadership is concerned with obtaining willing co-operation of the followers, not under conditions of threat or fear which thugs and dacoits do.

Q 46. Choose the correct statement with respect to “strategic change” of an organization.

Strategic changes generates many smaller order changes

Strategic changes are unlikely to have short term implications

Q 48. Identify the correct statement/s with regards to Planning. 1. It guarantees the desired future 2. Planning does not guarantee a specified future 3. Planning is the decision to be made in the future

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3
2 and 3
1 and 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only 2

Explanation:

Planning is deciding in advance what to do, how to do it, when to do it and who is to do it, etc. Planning is the most basic of all managerial functions, which will give direction to the activities for the future, through the determination of mission, objectives, goals, strategies, policies, procedures, rules, programmes, schedules and budgets.

Planning is a decision. It does not guarantee a specified future.

Q 49. Identify the correct option from the following with respect to Planning.

Past experience and data to be considered for proper planning

Planning predicts a specified future for an organization

Planning is worked up on the basis of possibilities and probabilities

All of the above statements are correct

Only options "a" and "c" are correct statements

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only options "a" and "c" are correct statements

Explanation:

Planning is deciding in advance what to do, how to do it, when to do it and who is to do it, etc. Planning is the most basic of all managerial functions, which will give direction to the activities for the future, through the determination of mission, objectives, goals, strategies, policies, procedures, rules, programmes, schedules and budgets.

Planning does not help one to predict or foresee what will happen in the future.

Planning is based on possibilities and probabilities. Planning involves looking into the future. It is however not prophecy.

Q 50. Select the correct option from the following, with respect to Quality of Life of an executive of an organization.

Experience at work do not affect quality of life

Good quality of life is a major contributor of good health

Quality of life depends mainly to availability of material comforts

All of the above

Only options a and b

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Good quality of life is a major contributor of good health

Explanation:

Quality of life (QL) does not depend on the availability of material comforts. Experience at work affects Quality of life.

If experience at work is dissatisfying, the consequent emotional disturbances will carry through to other activities in the family and socially, affecting Quality of life.

Q 1. What are the essential component/s of a formal bureaucratic organization, as described by Weber? 1. Impersonality 2. Selfishness 3. No supervision

Only 1

1 and 2

Only 2

Only 3

2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 1

Explanation:

The essential components of a formal bureaucratic organisation, as described by Weber, are:

- Division of labour, meaning that at every level and position, the tasks to be performed are to be clearly determined and defined.
- Hierarchy of positions, meaning that the chain of command is clearly defined and understood along with Responsibility and Accountability at every level.
- Uniformity of rules relating to conduct and discipline, which would apply uniformly to everyone.
- Impersonality, meaning that individual personal considerations would not apply when dealing with work and people. Recruitment, placements and promotions will be based on prescribed qualifications.
- Primacy of merit meaning people will occupy high positions by virtue of their competence and not their political or social contacts.

Q 2. Which are the assets of an organization, whose value is unlikely to increase by themselves unless some interventions, improvements or additions are made to them?

Human resources

Machinery

Materials

All of the above

Only 'b' and 'c'

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 'b' and 'c'

Explanation:

Other than Human Resources, all other assets, money, materials, machines and time, have capacities and capabilities, which are known at the time of procurement.

Over a period of time, these resources depreciate in value and cease to be assets. Their capacities will not enhance by themselves unless some improvements or additions are made to them.

Q 3. Which is the element focused in "Achievement Theory"?

Salary

Training

Work culture

Motivation

Sales target

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Motivation

Explanation:

David McClelland emphasised that the need to achieve exists in all persons, but is dormant in many and that it is possible to strengthen the motivation to achieve. When so developed, such people work to great capacity. This was called the Achievement Theory.

Objective questions

Specific questions

close ended questions

Exploratory questions

options 'a' and 'b'

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Exploratory questions

Explanation:

In an interview process, there are certain kinds of questions that can be answered in a number of different ways and require the candidate to think.

Such questions are called open-ended questions. They are exploratory in nature and reveal the thinking process of the candidate. They are most appropriate to understand the person being interviewed.

Q 11. Identify the correct option with respect to the importance of "listening" in communication.

One listens to all he hears

Communication is received through listening

Listening is receiving communication through the ear only

All of the above

None of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Communication is received through listening

Explanation:

The word "listening" is used here to include all ways of receiving a communication, and not only through the use of the ear. When one reads a letter or a representation, one is "listening". One cannot receive a communication without listening. One may hear but not listen. One hears much more than one listens to.

Listening is important for effective communication.

Q 12. Identify from the following, the correct statement/s with regard to empowerment.

An employee not feeling empowered will always challenge the decision of his seniors
An employee feeling empowered will wait for approval of his senior for any decision
A person can be empowered through delegation of authority
All of the above
None of the above

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
None of the above

Explanation:

Empowerment is what an employee feels about his duty, about what is expected from him. When an employee does not feel empowered, he would delegate the authority upwards by consulting the senior for "advice?", for "approval?", etc; informally, if not formally. An empowered employee does what he thinks needs to be done in the interest of the organisation, even if he does not have formal authority. Or he may chase people who have authority, to get them to do. Those who do not feel empowered do not challenge or attempt to modify the decisions of seniors, even when aware of the need to modify. Empowerment is what an employee feels about his duty, about what is expected from him. An employee not feeling empowered, will not take initiative, will not do anything more than what he is told to do.

Q 13. Identify from the following, the ways to cope up with stress. 1. Long working hours 2. Take up as much work as possible 3. Delegation, reduce burden on self

1 and 2
2 and 3
Only 1
Only 2
Only 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only 3

Explanation:

Some of the ways of coping with the stress and getting back to normal are:

- Relax
- Do anything that is pleasant enjoyable, hobbies, swimming, listening to music, socialise
- Practice meditation and yoga
- Share with someone who understands you (friends, spouse, parents, some colleagues, boss, if possible)

- Delegate, reduce burden on self
- Rationally modify perceptions to move from fear to challenge, from noticing negatives to seeing the positives in the situation
- Try being assertive (state one's position firmly) and avoid being submissive (kicking oneself) or aggressive (kicking others)

Q 14. As per studies conducted by Elton Mayo, which factor is considered to influence the productivity of an individual for an organization the most?

Emotional

Physical

Remuneration

Environmental

Qualification

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Emotional

Explanation:

Towards the late 1920's Elton Mayo (1880 – 1949) along with Roethlisberger and other colleagues conducted extensive studies at the Hawthorne plant of the Western Electric Company in the USA.

Careful observations by them brought to light that emotional factors influenced productivity more than physical, environment factors.

Q 15. Identify from the following, the attribute/s which is/are not desirable in a group. 1.

Jealousy among members 2. Cohesion 3. Loyalty

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

1 and 2

2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 1

Explanation:

The individual, as a member of the group, is affected by the group. If a group is not cohesive and is driven by suspicion, distrust, jealousy, etc.; members of the group are not likely to perform at their best.

To ensure the right climate in the group is the leader's responsibility.

Q 16. Identify from the following, an example of 'Policy' of an organization.

Company to get the damaged air conditioners in the office repaired

Sales manager to provide sales report to his reporting manager at the end of the day

The company should achieve a business growth rate of 25% in the current financial year

40% of the employees recruited in the current financial year should be women

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

40% of the employees recruited in the current financial year should be women

Explanation:

The planning process may lay down policies. Policies are statements of intention, declarations of broad objectives towards which resources will be applied.

A policy clarifies principles and values of management. Policies are not decisions but provide guidance for decision makers.

Q 17. Health insurance cards are issued to all the employees of XYZ Ltd. Which of Maslow's need is addressed in this?

Affiliation or Social needs

Physiological needs

Need of Self – Actualization

Esteem needs

Security or Safety Needs

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Security or Safety Needs

Explanation:

According to Abraham Maslow, needs are grouped into five levels, starting from the lower level to the higher-level needs. He calls this order "The Hierarchy of Needs" –

- Physiological needs
- Security or safety needs: These needs are related to avoidance of physical danger, threat, sickness and deprivation (of job or property, for example). Stability is sought.
- Affiliation or social needs
- Esteem or recognition needs
- Need for self-actualisation

The concept is that all human beings try to satisfy their biological needs first. However, there are differences in what constitutes satisfaction. The need for food may be satisfied by a frugal meal or by a lavish feast. The intensity of the satisfaction of the other needs of higher order also vary from individual to individual.

Q 18. Identify the training methodology in which the subject matter for learning is presented in small units referred as frames. 1. In basket exercise 2. Programmed instructions 3. Computer aided training

Only 2

1 and 3

1 and 2

2 and 3

1,2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 2

Explanation:

Programmed instruction consists of a text, which progressively feeds information to trainees.

The subject matter for learning is presented in small units called frames.

They are arranged in logical sequence. After each frame, questions are posed which the trainee should answer before moving on. The merit of this method is that the trainee learns at his own pace, at his own time, at his own place of stay or work or leisure.

Q 19. Identify from below the correct option which can be considered as example of a 'rule' of an organization. 1. Footwear not allowed inside the office 2. No smoking inside the lab area 3. Work from Home allowed for employees 5 days a month 4. 10% profit to be utilized for charity activity

1 and 2

3 and 4

1,2 and 4

2,3 and 4

1,2,3 and 4

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

1,2 and 4

Explanation:

Rules lay down what is permissible and what is not permissible. In a sense, a rule is law for the company.

When there is a rule, there is no discretion unless the rule itself allows for it. Some offices have rules on the dress to be worn at work. Rules can be changed by those who made the rules.

Rules are general guidelines and therefore may seem similar to policies.

Q 20. Identify from below, the selection tool specifically used to assess an individual on his ability to carry out responsibilities at a senior management level.

IJP

IQ test

Written test

Aptitude test

In basket exercise

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

In basket exercise

Explanation:

An "in-basket" is a set of papers which might come to an executive desk. The candidate is expected to record his decision on each of those papers. These decisions may be discussed later, between the candidates themselves or with the selectors. The decisions are expected to indicate executive competence as well as values.

An in-basket exercise is appropriate as a selection tool if the vacancy is in jobs at a high level, involving policy decisions and for promotions from within.

Q 21. Identify from the following, the correct options with respect to job analysis.

Job analysis help to identify the skills and qualification which is required for a job

Job analysis help to identify and eliminate unimportant jobs

Determinants arrived at after job analysis at different intervals of time will remain constant in a stable organisation

Options 'a' and 'b'

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Options 'a' and 'b'

Explanation:

Job analysis is an important step in HR planning. It helps to identify the capabilities required to do the jobs in a role.

On the basis of job analysis, it is possible to:

- Distinguish between operational, supervisory and managerial jobs;
- Evaluate which jobs are more important than others, although no job will be unimportant. If any job is unimportant, it can and should be, eliminated.
- Make an hierarchy of jobs on the basis of difficulty in acquiring the knowledge and skills necessary to do the various jobs;
- Identify the jobs that are very crucial or critical for the operations
- Decide the kinds of jobs that will have to be done in various offices and various points of time.

All the determinants arrived at after job analysis may change from time to time.

Q 22. What does Dedicated style of leadership also called as?

Autocratic Impoverished

Q 23. Which expression is used to refer to the number of persons who report to any one superior?

Span of control
Line of command
Line of control
Chain of command Centralization

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Span of control

Explanation:

In an organisational structure, there is always a superior to whom sub-ordinates will report. The expression “Span of Control” is used to refer to the number of persons who report to any one superior.

The term span of control is also known as “Span of management”, “Span of supervision” or the “Span of authority”.

Q 24. Read this management concept by Henri Fayol and identify which of the following term best represent the same. ‘Within the limits imposed by respect for authority and for discipline, subordinates must be free to think and carry out their plans’.

Innovation

Initiative

Delegation

Authority

Decentralization

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Initiative

Explanation:

Henri Fayol (1841-1925) a French industrialist, based on his experiences of managing a mining company, put forward the first theory of general management which came to be known as the Administration Theory. Fayol’s fourteen principles are comprehensive and embrace almost the essentials of all the functions of management.

One of the fourteen principles is Initiative which states that, within the limits imposed by respect for authority and for discipline, subordinates must be free to think and carry out their plans.

Q 25. Choose the correct option from the following with respect to ethical dilemma.

Ethical dilemmas are always intrapersonal

Ethical dilemmas are always interpersonal

Ethical dilemma is when the individual is directed by another person

Option ‘a’ and ‘c’

Option ‘b’ and ‘c’

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Ethical dilemmas are always intrapersonal

Explanation:

Every dilemma is not an ethical dilemma. Dilemmas become ethical only when questions of values, of proprieties are involved. Dilemmas may be intrapersonal, a clash of two duties of the same person.

Ethical dilemmas are always intrapersonal.

Q 26. Identify from the following, the statement/s which refers to 'Contingency approach' of management.

There should be provision for unplanned expenses in an organization

There is no single approach to management matters

What is appropriate in one situation may not necessarily be so in another situation

Only statements b and c

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only statements b and c

Explanation:

Arising out of the systems approach, management theorists came to believe that there was no one best way of structuring organisations and that what is appropriate in one situation may not necessarily be so in another situation.

According to this approach management science considers that management is a complex process and that there is no single approach to management matters. This is known as the contingency approach and this approach is still being refined so as to be of help in designing organisations to be more and more effective.

Q 27. The common manifestations of drift is/are: 1. High morale among the workforce 2.

Employees having a feeling of being neglected 3. Unified departmental perspectives

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

2 and 3

1 and 2

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 2

Explanation:

The most common manifestations of drift are:

Strong and divergent departmental perspectives, leading to intergroup differences or conflict, Diffused controls from too many control points, having different thrusts, Low morale among the employees, manifesting in lack of concern for performance, poor inter-personal relationships, rigidity in styles of functioning and indifference to results, Employees having a feeling of being neglected.

Q 28. Identify the correct statement from below which refers to the term “drift” in the process of change.

- A change initiated without consent of stakeholders
- Reversing a change which was implemented
- Lack of clear decision on the direction of change
- Delay in acceptance of change by stakeholders
- None of these

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Lack of clear decision on the direction of change

Explanation:

The process of “adaptation” to environment may sometimes lead to “drift” without any clear decision being made on the direction of change.

Indecision occurs as a response to the environment as perceived.

Q 29. Choose the correct option from the following, with respect to induction or orientation programs.

Induction programs has the candidate to understand the structure, values and objectives of the organization

It is mandatory for organization to conduct induction programs for new employees

Induction program is a part of candidate assessment program

Options B and C

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Induction programs has the candidate to understand the structure, values and objectives of the organization

Explanation:

After the selection process is complete, the appointment letter may be issued. But before placing the new appointee on the job, it is advisable to let him go through what is called Induction.

The purpose of induction is to help the candidate to understand the organisation, its structure, its values, its objectives, its policies, etc. The process of Induction is also called orientation.

Q 30. Bipin who is 45 years old is working as vice president of finance and Radha who is 55 years old is working as vice president of operations, in the same company. Bipin joined this company about 5 years back whereas Radha is with this company for about 25 years. Identify the correct statement with respect to their relations in the company.

Bipin is the subordinate of Radha

Radha is the superior of Bipin

Radha and Bipin are peers

None of the statements

Statements a and b

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Radha and Bipin are peers

Explanation:

An organisational structure consists of roles and the groups in which they are placed. A role is a position which a person will occupy. That person is called the incumbent in that role. Every role will have tasks and responsibilities attached to it. Every role will be related to another role, as

- Sub-ordinate
- Superior or
- Peer (same level)

The incumbent of a role will have to supervise his sub-ordinates, report to his superior and work in collaboration with the peers.

Q 31. Study and select the correct option from the following which best describes the given activity. "As a measure to minimize errors in data entry, an insurance company initiated the activity of double data entry."

Rule

Process

Quality control

Procedure

Programme

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Procedure

Explanation:

Procedures lay down detailed steps for doing things. A procedure lays down step-by-step details of actions while a policy lays down a general guideline.

All procedures will follow rules. But there may be rules independent of any procedure.

Q 32. Identify the examples of physiological needs from below. 1. Loneliness 2. Need for water

3. Deprivation of a job

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

1 and 2

2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 2

Explanation:

Physiological needs are the basic needs for survival like the need for air, food, water, warmth and sleep. According to Maslow, unless these needs are satisfied, the other needs do not arise.

Q 33. Which of the following options is/are correct with respect to the term 'Impersonality' in a Bureaucratic system.

Each position is assigned a specific task irrespective of personality of the individual

Recruitment, placements and promotions will be based on prescribed qualifications

Individual and personal considerations are applicable while dealing with work and people

Only 'b' and 'c' are correct

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Recruitment, placements and promotions will be based on prescribed qualifications

Explanation:

In his book titled, "The Theory of Social and Economic Organisation", Max Weber described a formal organisation as a "Legal – Rational" system based on precisely defined and organised "across-the-board" competencies of various offices and individuals. He called such a system a Bureaucracy.

One of the essential components of Bureaucracy is Impersonality, meaning that individual personal considerations would not apply when dealing with work and people. Recruitment, placements and promotions will be based on prescribed qualifications.

Q 34. Identify the items that could stand as prohibited in the ethical code for most organizations?

Regulatory compliance

Moonlighting

Capital expansion

Loyalty
Legal safeguards

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER: Moonlighting

O

S

T

O & T

S & O

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
O & T

Explanation:

SWOT stands for Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats. Good planning should, it is suggested, take note of these four factors.

O and T are related to happenings in the environment. They are external factors and will include political, regulatory, technical, technological, competitive, financial, economic, demographic, social, etc. factors.

Q 36. In order to allow the manager to control a large number of subordinates, the following factors play an important role. 1. Qualified labour 2. Distant work locations 3. Unskilled labour

1 and 2

2 and 3

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Explanation:

If the sub-ordinates are qualified, capable and committed to the tasks assigned to them, a manager may be able to manage a relatively large number of sub-ordinates.

Q 37. Conflicts may exist _____.

Within the individuals

Between individuals

Within the organization

All of the above

Only 'b' and 'c'

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

An organisation is unlikely to be a place of peace, tranquility and harmony, without any conflict at all.

Conflicts are inevitable in certain situations. The existence of conflict is also an indication that the organisation is dynamic and vibrant.

Conflicts may exist within the individual or between individuals and within the organisation.

Q 38. Identify from the following, the correct option which is considered as an activity of Strategic Planning. 1. Weekly progress report 2. Giving board indicators and directions about plan of the organization 3. Giving specific details

1 and 3

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only 2

Explanation:

While discussing planning, one would come across the expression 'Strategic Planning'. Strategies differ from tactics, mainly in the extent of details and specifics and time frames. Strategic planning gives only broad indications and not specific details, while tactical decisions will specify operational details.

Q 39. Complete the following statement: The Hawthorne Studies of Mayo and his colleagues gave rise to _____.

Scientific Management Theory
Ideal bureaucracy Theory
Human Relations Approach to Management
Automated Management Administration Theory

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Human Relations Approach to Management

Explanation:

A new concept came to be recognised as important in the work place viz., the social system. The Hawthorne Studies of Mayo and his colleagues gave rise to the Human Relations Approach to Management.

Q 40. Which of the following factors determine the maturity of a sub-ordinate?

Willingness of the sub-ordinate to perform
Skill of the sub-ordinate
Length of the service of the sub-ordinate
Option 'a' and 'b'
All of the above

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Option 'a' and 'b'

Explanation:

Hersey and Blanchard have postulated the concept of Situational Leadership which states that the leadership style should depend on the “maturity” of the sub-ordinates.

The word “maturity” is used to refer to: the skill of the sub-ordinate in relation to the tasks at hand, and his will to perform.

Q 41. From the below options, identify the conflict resolution strategy which is considered as win-win strategy.

Competition Strategy

Compromise Strategy

Moderation Strategy

Collaboration Strategy

Accommodation Strategy

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Collaboration Strategy

Explanation:

The collaboration strategy is the most desirable but not necessarily the easiest. There is mutual concern for both the contesting parties and their viewpoints. This is important to strive for, if the stakes are high for the organisation. This is usually the most satisfying for all concerned.

The collaboration strategy is a win – win strategy.

Q 42. Choose the correct option from the following, with respect to ‘cognitive knowledge’.

Cognitive knowledge refers incomplete information

Cognitive knowledge cannot be used in practical life

Cognitive knowledge can be acquired through reading

All of the above

None of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Cognitive knowledge can be acquired through reading

Explanation:

Cognitive knowledge can be acquired through reading, hearing and seeing.

That knowledge is useful to anyone only if he can use it himself in practical action.

Q 43. What is the responsibility of every management? 1. To ensure resources are used in a sub-optimal manner 2. To ensure resources are not wasted 3. To ensure value of a resource is enhanced after acquisition

- 1 and 2
- 2 and 3
- Only 1
- Only 2
- 1, 2 and 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
2 and 3

Explanation:

It is the responsibility of every management to ensure they do not:

- waste the resources acquired and
- enhance their value or capabilities after acquisition

This responsibility is much greater in the case of HR, as they are the ones that can make the other resources perform and more importantly, their potential for development (or enhancement of capabilities) is unlimited.

Q 44. Select the correct option which describes the term “moonlighting” referred in the code of ethics of an organization.

Over projection of achievements

Falsification of account's

Working overtime

Wasting time during office hours and setting late in office to complete the work

None of these

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
None of these

Explanation:

‘Moonlighting’ is one of the items included in the code of ethics of some firms as strictly prohibited.

Moonlighting refers to the practice of working a second job outside normal business hours.

Therefore, an employee may work a normal 9-to-5 job as a primary source of income but work nights at a different job in order to earn extra money.

Certain organizations may not want employees to work additional jobs while others will not care.

Q 45. What is known as the written description of a real-life situation.

Log

Journal Play Role

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER: Case

Explanation:

A case is a written description of a real-life situation. Participants are given cases to study and identify the issues, and to explore the possible causes and solutions.

The role of the trainer is that of a mere catalyst. He does not actively participate in the discussion but merely raises questions, summarises the discussion from time to time, and connects observations of the participants to concepts, where necessary.

Q 46. What would be the future style of working of Human Resource Management, in order to play a greater role?

Engagement
Employee oriented Detachment Static Profit oriented

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER: Engagement

Explanation:

Competition in the future will be keener than ever before. Those organisations which do well may reshape and redefine not only their products, but the industry itself. It will be necessary to innovate systems and procedures. The environment is dynamic. The individuals with whom HR people are going to work are increasingly diverse in interests, abilities and motivations. The result is a future with exciting challenges and opportunities.

The new system will be one of dynamic engagement. Managers will now think of a company not as an organisation of managers and workers, but as a company of partners in business. Everyone will have to think as if it is his own business. Everyone will expect an opportunity to contribute to the change.

Q 47. Dr. Singh is one of the best surgeons in the city who is practicing since more than a decade. He is member of a prestigious club in town and actively participates in sports activities of the club. Identify the dimension of his personality which can be attributed to his membership with the club.

Enthusiasm

Authority

Social

Financial

Psychological

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Social

Explanation:

- Critical Path Method (CPM)

Q 49. An example of work situation which may lead to stress is_____.

Inability to get results

Positive feedback

Training programs

Timely recognition
Clearly defined roles

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Inability to get results

Explanation:

Stress is a condition when the body perceives “danger”.

Situations at work in which people may often get stressed are:

- Inability to get results
- Feeling pressurised by public / bosses / unions
- Inadequate resources (powers, staff, time) to get work done
- Not being appreciated (lack of recognition)
- Inequitable rewards (someone else gets better benefits etc.

Q 50. Identify from the following, the correct option/s which are considered to constitute dimensions of personality of an individual. 1. Social 2. Physiological 3. Demographical

Only 1

1 and 3

1 and 2

2 and 3

1,2 and 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
1 and 2

Explanation:

It is believed that every individual has five distinct dimensions to his personality that affect his work. They are:

Physiological: which relates to the use of physical strengths, stamina, coordination (of senses, mind and muscle), alertness, speed of response, patterns of rhythm, stress, sharpness of observation, etc.

Psychological: which relates to his self-image, sense of self-worth, complexes, fears, preferences, satisfactions, enthusiasm, etc.

Social: which relates to his affiliations, memberships and status in religious, professional or community groups

Economic: which relates to his earnings, standard of living

Power: which relates to his need (or lack of it) for dominance or dependence

Q 51. Name the informal and unstructured communication channel that cuts across formal channels of communication.

Lateral communication

Written communication

Vertical communication

Downward communication

Grapevine

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Grapevine

Explanation:

Much communication takes place in organisations through informal communication channels.

These channels do not recognise official levels of positions.

The informal network connects persons who are socially affiliated, mostly through the medium of word-of-mouth. Known as the grapevine, these informal channels carry information with little distortion because the members share languages, perceptions and frames of reference (social affiliations bring about commonness of interest and outlook) and have little cause for defensiveness.

Q 52. Who is referred to as the Father of modern management theory?

Max Weber

Carzo and Yanouzas

Elton Mayo

Henri Fayol

Frederic W Taylor

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Henri Fayol

Explanation:

Henri Fayol is often referred to as the “Father of modern management theory”, because he recognised management as a separate industrial activity, distinct from others, like technical, commercial, financial, security and accounting.

Q 53. ‘Hot stove rule’ is relevant for which of the following context?

Social security

Disciplinary action

Crisis management

Team coordination
Business competition

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Disciplinary action

Explanation:

The hot stove rule emphasises that the response to indiscipline should be impersonal, quick and consistent.

Q 54. Study the following statements with respect to Mission of an Organisation and select the correct option. 1. It does not specify timelines 2. It is a broad statement on the purpose of the organization 3. It is spelt out by the employees of the organization

Only statement 1 is correct
Only statements 1 and 2 are correct
Only statements 1 and 3 are correct
Only statements 2 and 3 are correct
Statements 1,2 and 3 are correct

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only statements 1 and 2 are correct

Explanation:

The mission of an organisation is the broadest possible statement of why that organisation has been created. It would be stated in very general terms and without a time frame.

It would be spelt out by the promoters or the Board of Directors. The mission would remain unchanged for quite some time and would provide the rationale for all its activities.

Q 55. As envisaged by Weber, on which basis a bureaucracy worked on?

People occupying position based on their social status
Hierarchy of positions
Whims of individuals
Flat structure of organization
No clear demarcation of work

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Hierarchy of positions

Explanation:

A bureaucracy, as envisaged by Weber, worked on the basis of:

- Impersonality, not whims of individuals
- Hierarchy of positions representing tasks of different kinds
- Rationality which not only emphasises Impersonality, but requires written records being maintained to make known the basis of actions and decisions

- Procedures to be laid down and followed

These days, the term “Bureaucracy” has acquired a rather derogatory connotation indicating a large, unwieldy organisation full of delays and red tape.

Q 56. Ability to maintain equanimity in situations of crisis is needed because of the following reason:

Crisis will cause minimum damage

Mind can search for appropriate actions to overcome the difficult situations

Crisis will be averted

One can avoid crisis the next time around

One can issue clear orders

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Mind can search for appropriate actions to overcome the difficult situations

Explanation:

Ability to maintain equanimity (emotional balance) in situations of crisis is needed so that the brain and mind can search for appropriate actions to overcome the difficult situations.

Lack of equanimity may lead to extremes of anger or depression or panic, none of which are helpful for clear thinking and exploration of available options. Clear thinking becomes a casualty even in cases of ecstatic elation.

That is therefore, as bad as too much of anger and despondency.

Q 57. Which of the following is/are among the Seven C's of written communication? 1. Crude

2. Callous 3. Conciseness

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

1 and 2

2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 3

Explanation:

Written communication should satisfy seven C's which are:

- Completeness: Stating all essential facts, anticipating and answering all possible doubts.
- Courtesy: Pleasantly worded, meant to gain goodwill, requesting instead of ordering.
- Consideration: Keeping in mind the reader's interest and level of understanding
- Clarity: Using simple familiar words, short sentences, avoiding jargon and uncommon abbreviations.
- Conciseness: Avoiding superfluous and redundant expressions
- Concreteness: Avoiding complicated imagery and saying directly, leaving little room to imagine.
- Correctness: Particularly with numbers, dates and references.

Q 58. An employee can first appeal to _____, if aggrieved by the order of disciplinary authority for imposing penalty.

1 and 2

1 and 3

Only 2

Only 3

1,2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 3

Explanation:

The concepts relating to HRM are developed largely from sciences relating to behaviour of people like Psychology, Sociology, Anthropology and Social Psychology. These sciences deal with human beings, their nature and their behaviour as individuals and as members of groups.

Q 60. _____ would be necessary, to manage even a simple job well. 1. Adequate resources 2. Clear objective 3. Big team of workers

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

1 and 2

2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

1 and 2

Explanation:

To manage well even a simple job, it would be necessary:

- for someone to be in charge of the operation (Responsibility),
- for him to know what should be the final result when the job is completed (Objective),
- to work out how the job should be done and how much time it should take (Planning),
- the number of persons to be engaged in the task and the amount of money and other resources that may be required (Resources) and then
- arrange to gather the resources (organising)

Q 61. Identify from the following, the correct statement with respect to gestures.

Gestures have universality in meaning

Gestures are part of body language

Gesture is generally a verbal communication

Only 'b' and 'c' are correct

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Gestures are part of body language

Explanation:

Gestures also do not have universality in meanings. A nod may mean agreement in some communities, but disapproval in some other communities. These differences are problems of Semantics.

Gestures are part of body language and considered as non-verbal communication.

Q 62. Which Act/Rules gives several rights to consumers?

Industrial Disputes Act

Trade Unions Act

IRDAI Policy Holders Protection Act

Consumer Protection Act

Redressal of Public Grievances Rules

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Consumer Protection Act

Explanation:

The Consumer Protection Laws provide relief to consumers if there is deficiency of service. The relief granted can be heavy if the deficiency is proved to be as a result of neglect.

Q 63. Which factor/factors cause the intervening variables responsible for climate of an organization?

Distribution Mechanism

Cost of raw Materials

Management Policies

All of the above

None of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Distribution Mechanism

Explanation:

Rensis Likert had postulated that three sets of variables are relevant to determine climate.

The first are the causal variables, which are organisational structure, management policies, leadership styles, skills and behaviour.

The second are the intervening variables, which are caused by the first set and relate to climate factors.

The end-result variables are the result of the Intervening variables. They are productivity, costs, quality of work, etc.

Q 64. Choose the correct option/s from the following with respect to gestures.

Gestures have universality in meaning

Gestures are a part of body language

Gesture is generally a verbal communication

All of the above

Only a & b

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Gestures are a part of body language

Explanation:

Gestures also do not have universality in meanings. A nod may mean agreement in some communities, but disapproval in some other communities. These differences are problems of Semantics.

Gestures are part of body language and considered as non-verbal communication.

Q 65. What does Theory X assumes?

The average worker does not inherently dislike work

An average worker has little capacity for creative problem solving

Commitment to objectives is related to outcomes from efforts put in

External control and threats of punishment are not the only means for regulating efforts at work

The expenditure of physical and mental effort at work is as natural as play or rest

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

An average worker has little capacity for creative problem solving

Explanation:

Theory X assumptions are:

An average human being has an inherent dislike of work and will avoid it if he can. Therefore, workers must be coerced, controlled, directed and threatened with punishment to get them to make adequate efforts towards achievement of organisational goals.

An average human being prefers to be directed, does not like to take responsibility, has little ambition and wants security above all.

An average worker has little capacity for creative problem solving, is inherently self-centred and, by nature, resistant to change.

Q 66. Identify from the following the correct option with regards to quality of a good interviewer.

Talk as much as possible

Grill the candidate

Engage in heated arguments

Avoid making the candidate uncomfortable

Keep the candidates talking to a minimum

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Avoid making the candidate uncomfortable

Explanation:

An interview is an opportunity to make an assessment about the candidate on attributes which can be best known only through personal interaction.

The interviewer therefore has to get the candidate to talk and do more, revealing his inner thought processes. It follows that:

- the interviewer should talk as little as possible
- avoid making the candidate uncomfortable
- enable and encourage the candidate to talk
- avoid arguing with the candidate
- Simple questions on achievements, family background, etc. will be appropriate to the extent that they are preliminaries, intended to make the candidate shed the tension and begin to feel comfortable

- lead to explore further issues that are of relevance in making valid assessments

Q 67. Which of the following options best describes the term "Ergonomics"?

Workplace designed to suit the convenience of employees

Assessment of manpower requirement for a specific task

Manpower planning with cost benefit analysis

Measurement methodology of manpower productivity

Process of improving employee efficiency through relationship management

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Workplace designed to suit the convenience of employees

Explanation:

Ergonomics, looking at relationships of human body to work, thereby helping designs of office furniture, and instrument panels in aircraft cockpits, etc is an extension of Taylor's methods.

Q 68. The training which is very effective to reduce dysfunctional conflict and strengthen group cohesiveness is _____.

T Group

In-basket exercises

Vestibule training

Mentoring

Simulation

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
T Group

Explanation:

Sensitivity training, also called T-groups or laboratory training, seeks to help individuals become aware of – sensitive to – themselves, their needs, values, attitude, and behaviour with the help of others in the group. The programme is unstructured and unplanned.

When the group meets, there will be no agenda and no leader. The members of the group will gradually begin to interact, giving expression to their thoughts on what is supposed to happen, etc. and also on what they should do in that situation.

This type of training sessions can be very effective in providing insights into oneself and improving communication and interpersonal skills.

Q 69. As per the publication 'In Search of Excellence', which of the following are identified as cultural characteristics of successful companies?

Hands off management
Complete avoidance of risk
Listen to the customer
Option 'b' and 'c'
All of the above

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Listen to the customer

Explanation:

In 1986, Tom Peters and R. H. Waterman published "In Search of Excellence" in which they identified the following cultural characteristics of successful companies:

- A bias for action and for getting things done
- They listen to the customer and learn from them
- Autonomy, entrepreneurship, risk taking and innovation are part of their ways
- Employees are treated as sources of innovation, quality and productivity
- Simple lean organisational systems
- Hands-on value driven management
- Stick to the knitting: they stick to what they know they can do well and do that well.

Q 70. Select from below the things an interviewer should not do.

Talk as little as possible
Interrupt the candidate who is talking in response to a question

Keep quiet while the candidate is answering
Avoid arguing with the candidate
Encourage the candidate to talk freely

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Interrupt the candidate who is talking in response to a question

Explanation:

The interviewer therefore has to get the candidate to talk and do more, revealing his inner thought processes.

It follows that the interviewer should -

- talk as little as possible
- avoid making the candidate uncomfortable
- enable and encourage the candidate to talk
- avoid arguing with the candidate

Q 71. What is shown by Hawthorne studies? 1. Fear is a strong motivator 2. Money is the only incentive that can motivate people 3. Need for money is suppressed by a stronger need to 'belong' to the group

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

1 and 2

2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 3

Explanation:

Motivation is an internal impulse. Nobody can motivate a worker, except himself. The manager may offer extra bonus for better production but this may have little effect on the work. It is possible that the need for money is suppressed by a stronger need to "belong" to the group, to be met by doing only as much as everybody else does. This was what the Hawthorne studies showed.

Q 72. Describe what is involved in Strategic Planning. 1. Formulating action plan 2. Giving broad indicators and Directions 3. Giving specific details

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3
1 and 2
1 and 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only 2

Explanation:

Strategic planning gives only broad indications and not specific details, while tactical decisions will specify operational details. An investment strategy decision may involve a choice of the preferred mix of allocation between bonds, stocks and other instruments. Tactical decisions may determine the timing to buy and to sell. Strategic decisions may be to support local talent for employment and to help them to qualify for the prescribed standards, while the tactical decisions may relate to criteria for selecting potential recruits.

Q 73. The principal way to achieve the basic goals of effective management at all levels in all kinds of enterprise is:

Problem solving
Quantitative decision making
Planning, organizing, staffing, leading, controlling
Predict accurately the changing environment
Effective utilization of human and material resources

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Planning, organizing, staffing, leading, controlling

Explanation:

Fayol's fourteen principles represent the first attempt at a complete theory of management and included the basic management functions of planning, organising, staffing, leading and controlling.

Q 74. Which concept is described in Reddin's 3D Theory?

Managerial effectiveness
Dimensions of personality
Quality, quantity and value for effort
Behaviour of individuals at work place
Rewards, recognition and punishments

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Managerial effectiveness

Explanation:

Prof. Bill Reddin developed on this grid with the third dimension of effectiveness. According to him, each of these four types can be effective or ineffective depending on the circumstances in which it is applied.

Q 75. According to human resources concept, what does placement mean?

Recruitment in technical jobs

Placing elderly persons in places involving abrupt changes in their jobs

Employment of friend or relative

Right person for the right job

Advancement of juniors with higher responsibilities

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Right person for the right job

Explanation:

A well-planned HR function will ensure that the right people are available at the right places at the right times.

To do so, one needs to know the requirements and also the availability of people.

Q 76. Choose from below, the option which is not an e-commerce outlet. 1. Snapdeal 2.

E-seva 3. Digilocker

Q 77. Generally, the expression _____ is used to refer to the ways in which members of a group experience the working environment in an organization.

Climate

Empowerment

Situation

Attitude

Transparency

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Climate

Explanation:

The expression “climate” is used to refer to the ways in which members of a group experience the working environment.

This will have an effect on the commitment of members to the group and therefore affect attitudes at work.

Q 78. As per Maslow’s Hierarchy of Needs, needs are grouped into how many levels?

2

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

5

Explanation:

According to Abraham Maslow, needs are grouped into five levels, starting from the lower level to the higher-level needs. He calls this order “The Hierarchy of Needs”.

Q 79. Hygiene Theory is also known as_____.

Recognition Theory

Rational Theory

Two factor Theory

Advancement Theory

None of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Two factor Theory

Explanation:

Hygiene factors must exist satisfactorily. Otherwise, there are negative feelings. Their presence removes dissatisfaction, but does not make people enthusiastic to work. They do not make workers want to do.

This theory is called the Hygiene Theory or the Two Factor Theory.

Q 80. Which is the well known and popular concept in management?

- Management of customers
- Management by objectives
- Management of share holders
- Management of human resources
- None of these

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Management of human resources

Explanation:

The expression 'human resource' refers to People. It is the most critical resource in an organisation. The utilisation of all other resources depends on this resource. None of the other resources can achieve anything by themselves. They will contribute only in the manner that they are utilised by the people handling them. It is also the most difficult resource to manage. They have their own identity and ideas as to what needs to be done and how it needs to be done. They have skills, which may be unique. For these and many other similar reasons, the management of Human Resources is of crucial significance in every organisation.

Q 81. Select the correct statement with respect to the theory of motivation of Frederick Herzberg.

- Human beings are in high need for power, to be in control, to dominate
- Human beings are pure economic being
- Financial incentives play a much more important role than social cohesion for an individual
- All of the above
- None of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

None of the above

Explanation:

On the basis of empirical studies, it has been observed that human beings are not merely economic beings. Herzberg has established the limitations of financial incentives. They are also social beings.

Attitudes to work are influenced by the social interaction, probably more powerfully than all the economic incentives and working conditions. Incentives may be rejected if they are seen as threatening to social cohesion.

Q 82. _____ lay down the sequence in which a series of operations will be carried out.

Procedures

Policy

Rule

Plan

Schedules

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Schedules

Explanation:

Schedules lay down the sequence in which a series of operations will be carried out. The schedule will also lay down the time frame for such activities.

Q 83. There should be a _____ for every activity. 1. Leader 2. Response 3. Purpose

Only 3

Only 2

Only 1

2 and 3

1 and 2

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 3

Explanation:

For every activity there should be a purpose and only when the purpose is clear can we think of what is to be done to achieve it. In a similar way while managing, the first step would be to identify the purpose to be achieved. This is the first step in planning.

Q 84. Which of the following statements is true with regards to Case Study Concept of training?

Helps participants in group centered discussion like in seminars

Enriches job knowledge

Gives more focus to the trainer's role

Helps in learning skills through practice

Promotes analytical thinking & problem solving

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Promotes analytical thinking & problem solving

Explanation:

A case is a written description of a real-life situation. The purpose is to make the participants understand the complexity of real-life situations as well as the perplexities of their own approaches to such situations. The main merit of the case study method is that it promotes analytical thinking and problem-solving ability. One might also learn that what seems obvious at first is perhaps, not the reality and further possibilities must be explored.

Q 85. Identify the correct statements with respect to T-groups.

T-group's programme is unplanned and unstructured

T-groups help individuals become aware of their needs, values, attitude and behaviour with the help of others in the group.

The program is aimed at improving communication and interpersonal skills of individuals

All of the above are correct statements

Only option 'b' and 'c' are correct statements

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above are correct statements

Explanation:

Sensitivity training, also called T-groups or laboratory training, seeks to help individuals become aware of – sensitive to – themselves, their needs, values, attitude, and behaviour with the help of others in the group. The programme is unstructured and unplanned. When the group meets, there will be no agenda and no leader. The members of the group will gradually begin to interact, giving expression to their thoughts on what is supposed to happen, etc. and also on what they should do in that situation.

This type of training sessions can be very effective in providing insights into oneself and improving communication and interpersonal skills.

Q 86. Complete the statement with appropriate options from the following: Communication is intended to influence the _____ of people. 1. Thoughts 2. Attitudes

3. Behavior

1 and 2

2 and 3

1,2 and 3

Only 2

Only 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

1,2 and 3

Explanation:

Communication is intended to influence the attitudes, thoughts and behaviour of people.

Therefore, feelings need to be taken note of and not ignored. They are not always expressed verbally but they are expressed in subtle ways, mainly through body language.

A good communicator has to be sensitive to these.

Q 87. Identify from the following, the factor/s which is/are to be considered for fixing of fair wages as per Henry Fayol.

Cost of living

Education of employee

Experience of the employee

Only a and b

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Cost of living

Explanation:

Fayol suggested that fair remuneration would recognise cost of living and business conditions, rewarding exceptional efforts, using job rates, bonuses, profit sharing and other methods.

Q 88. One of the steps involved in the formal disciplinary procedure is:

Initiate criminal proceedings

Talk to the miscreant about his behavior

Issue show-cause notice to the employee

Cajole the miscreant

Fire the miscreant immediately

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Issue show-cause notice to the employee

Explanation:

Usually, the steps involved in a formal disciplinary procedure are:

- To issue a charge sheet
- To hold a domestic enquiry, if the employee denies the charge
- Peruse the report of the enquiry officer
- Issue show-cause notice to the employee, if the charges are proved, indicating the proposed punishment
- Issue order of punishment after receipt and perusal of reply from the employee to the show-cause notice

Q 89. What should be the aim of industrial relations strategies of an organization?

Achieve corporate objectives by divide and rule method

Avoid negotiations with trade unions

Achieve corporate objectives with maximum cooperation from employees minimizing causes of industrial unrest

Achieve corporate objectives by gaining co-operation from the employees

Achieve maximum profits to the organization and Government

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Achieve corporate objectives with maximum cooperation from employees minimizing causes of industrial unrest

Explanation:

The Industrial Relations Act, 1945 lays down the legal framework under which workers are allowed to form unions which may negotiate with managements for matters concerning the workers.

The purpose of the law is to ensure smooth functioning of industrial units and eliminate stoppage of the industrial unit.

Q 90. What is the name of the process by which a manager passes on to his subordinate the authority to make decisions and the responsibility to achieve certain results?

Delegation

Regulation

Segregation

Aggregation

Departmentalization

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Delegation

Explanation:

Delegation is the process by which a manager passes on to his sub-ordinate, the authority to make decisions and the responsibility to achieve certain results. Instruction to perform a certain task is not delegation.

Q 91. Identify which of the following option/s is/areas indicative of below statement: "While planning, every manager should articulate key points."

Timelines

Goals

Activities to be conducted

Resource allocation

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

While planning, the manager has to answer the following questions:

- What are the goals / objectives to be achieved? (Why am I doing?)
- What activities will lead to such objectives?
- What resources are required to do those activities?
- How and when should those activities be carried out?

Q 92. The factor/s which are likely to affect the openness of an employee is/are:

His position in the hierarchy

Lack of confidence in justifying one's views

Qualification of the employee

Options 'a' and 'b'

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Lack of confidence in justifying one's views

Explanation:

Openness refers to the willingness of a member to (i) express himself and also (ii) listen to and examine the validity of opposing points of view.

In some groups, members do not feel comfortable to express themselves. There is a sensing that such expressions would not be welcome, that it is necessary to go along with what may be seen to be the views of some others, who may be perceived as dominating in the group.

Openness is the extent to which members feel free to express themselves. Such behaviour comes out of perceptions, caused:

- partly by observation and interpretation of events,
- partly by the comments of friends and some colleagues and
- partly by one's lack of confidence in being able to justify one's views

Q 93. Identify from below the option which is not a part of Fayol's principles.

Globlisation

Authority and responsibility

Line of authority

Unity of command

Option 'a' and 'c'

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Option 'a' and 'c'

Explanation:

In 1916, Fayol enumerated fourteen principles of management. Fayol's fourteen principles are comprehensive and embrace almost the essentials of all the functions of management.

The fourteen principles are:

- 1 Division of Work
- 2 Authority and Responsibility
- 3 Discipline
- 4 Unity of Command
- 5 Unity of Direction
- 6 Subordination of Individual interest to the Common Good
- 7 Fair Remuneration
- 8 Centralisation
- 9 Scalar Chain
- 10 Order
- 11 Equity

Q 95. Which strategy adopted to deal with conflicts in a group, develops goodwill?

Consensus Unanimity Compromise Accommodation Collaboration

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Accommodation

Explanation:

The accommodation strategy is adopted when one or both of the conflicting parties agree to give up some of its concerns to satisfy the concerns of the other. This may seem to be generosity, charity, submission or self-sacrifice.

It can happen when during discussions, some of the aspects of other viewpoints are recognised to be more beneficial. This strategy develops goodwill.

Q 96. Choose from below, the assumptions under Theory X :

Commitment to objectives is related to outcomes from efforts put in
The expenditure of physical and mental effort at work is as natural as play or rest
An average worker has little capacity for creative problem solving
The average worker does not inherently dislike work
External control and threats of punishment are not the only means for regulating efforts at work

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

An average worker has little capacity for creative problem solving

Explanation:

Theory X assumptions are:

An average human being has an inherent dislike of work and will avoid it if he can. Therefore, workers must be coerced, controlled, directed and threatened with punishment to get them to make adequate efforts towards achievement of organisational goals.

An average human being prefers to be directed, does not like to take responsibility, has little ambition and wants security above all.

An average worker has little capacity for creative problem solving, is inherently self-centred and, by nature, resistant to change.

Q 98. Which of the following is an example of non-monetary reward?

Increments

Transport facility

Residential telephone

Nomination for seminars

None of the above

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Nomination for seminars

Explanation:

Non-monetary rewards have infinite variety. Some are job related like higher responsibility, shift to a position or place of choice, duties with more visibility.

Some are not job related, like mention in company bulletins, press handouts, gifts to family, photographs in publicity literature, nominations for seminars, selection to address conventions, authority to represent company in negotiations or important meetings, holidays in a place of choice, admission to privileged rosters, (sometimes called clubs), invitation to lunch/dinner with V.I.Ps, and so on.

Being made a role model is a big reward.

Q 99. Which of the following discipline studies individuals in relation to other human beings?

Psychology
Sociology Anthropology
Political science
All of the above

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Sociology

Explanation:

Sociologists study the social system, which is made up of interacting individuals.

In other words, sociology studies individuals in relation to other human beings. Specifically, sociologists have made valuable contributions to the study of group behaviour in organisations. Sociologists have given us ideas of group dynamics, work teams, organisational culture, communication, power, conflict and inter group behaviour.

Awareness through training, safety slogans and video films
Review of design of equipments
Health programs and fitness campaigns for employees
Options A and B
All of the above

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
All of the above

Explanation:

Management has a responsibility for the health and safety of the employees. Every year, a number of employees die due to work related accidents. Many more get injured or contract diseases.

Following activities can be carried out by organisations for the Safety of employees:

- Create awareness: Safety awareness can be created through training, display of safety slogans, exhibiting video films and so on.
- Layout and supervision: Jobs and equipment can be designed in such a way as to reduce the risk of accidents. The layout of the work place can also be a factor affecting the possibility of accidents.
- Health programmes: There should be strict control on drugs and alcohol being used at the work place.

Limited to the views of the appraiser

Overtly critical

Should be judgmental

Should be based on the most recent events

Provide methods to overcome the problems which are identified by appraisee

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Provide methods to overcome the problems which are identified by appraisee

Explanation:

Appraisal or evaluation of performance is part of the development process.

An appraisal, to have any use as a developmental tool must be non-threatening and

- must provide reasonably accurate feedback to the appraisee
- seek views of the appraisee on the problems identified
- provide methods to overcome the problems which are identified
- seek view of the appraisee on how he wishes to see his career progress forward

Q 9. Which of the following factors can distort Oral communications?

Tone of voice

Nature of surroundings

Facial expression

Options 'a' and 'c'

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Options 'a' and 'c'

Explanation:

In case of oral communication, there is a direct contact and face to face relationship between the sender and receiver. In case of telephones or intercom systems, face to face contact may not be present but messages do travel through tone and voice modulations, pauses, etc.

Oral communication is:

- unsuitable for lengthy and distant communications
- inadequate where permanent records and uniformity of communications are required, for example in case of policies and rules
- likely to be distorted through facial expression and tone of voice or wrong choice of words
- likely to be misinterpreted and misquoted
- likely to generate responses that may not be well thought of

Q 10. What does consideration of communication point at?

Stating all essential facts, anticipating and answering all possible doubts

Keeping in mind the readers interest and level of understanding

Pleasantly worded, meant to gain goodwill

Usage of simple familiar words, avoiding jargon

Avoiding superfluous and redundant expressions

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Keeping in mind the readers interest and level of understanding

Explanation:

Written communication satisfies seven C's.

- Completeness: Stating all essential facts, anticipating and answering all possible doubts.
- Courtesy: Pleasantly worded, meant to gain goodwill, requesting instead of ordering.

- Consideration: Keeping in mind the reader's interest and level of understanding
- Clarity: Using simple familiar words, short sentences, avoiding jargon and uncommon abbreviations.

- Conciseness: Avoiding superfluous and redundant expressions
- Concreteness: Avoiding complicated imagery and saying directly, leaving little room to imagine.

- Correctness: Particularly with numbers, dates and references

Abolition of child labour

Q 12. What is the group which is created to help the organization in achieving its goal by performing a part of the job is known as?

Formal group

Committee

Command group

Informal group

Problem solving group

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Problem solving group

Explanation:

Organisations may also have Problem Solving groups or Task Forces, put together for a specific task of solving a problem or executing a job. The group will be dismantled as soon as that task is done.

Q 13. Spot the indicator by which a dedicated style of leadership is identified.

Aggressive

Not mixing easily

Low interaction

Gives minimal guidance

Cautious

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER: Aggressive

Explanation:

Dedicated style also called autocratic: determined, aggressive, confident, busy, driving, restless, self-reliant, talks always of jobs, controls, ambitious, likes rewards-punishments, self-centred, inconsiderate to others, manipulative. Likely to be found in production.

Q 14. Which is the oldest and the most commonly used method, especially when proficiency in a job is dependent on a variety of skills and on adequate practice?

Formal training
Classroom training
Apprenticeship training
Computer aided training
Informal training

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Apprenticeship training

Explanation:

Apprenticeship training is the oldest and the most commonly used method, especially when proficiency in a job is dependent on a variety of skills and on adequate practice. Operating various kinds of machines come under this category.

Apprenticeship is useful in crafts and also in professions with or without any academic preparation.

Q 15. What is said to be an issue in making a decision.

Belief Dilemma Thought Value Perception

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER: Dilemma

Explanation:

A dilemma exists when a choice has to be made between alternatives. Making choice between alternatives is called "decision making". All decisions are not dilemmas. If the alternatives can be evaluated on economic or such other measurable considerations, which throw up clearly the data helping to decide which alternative to prefer, there is no dilemma. If the alternatives have equal weight in choosing, there could be a dilemma.

Q 16. Choose the correct option with regards to the results of partial disciplinary action.

Episodes of rebellion will reduce

Morale will go up

Morale will go down

People will respect the system more

There will be sense of camaraderie among employees

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Morale will go down

Explanation:

The general principles involved in taking care of disciplinary problems are the following:

- Make disciplinary action corrective rather than punitive.
- Make disciplinary action progressive
- Make disciplinary action impartial. Impartiality means applying disciplinary rules uniformly to all persons without fear or favour. If there is no impartiality, morale will go down.
- Keep disciplinary action impersonal
- Follow due procedure and provide adequate opportunity to the employee to explain his position.

Q 17. Choose from the following, the correct option with respect to behaviour of an individual.

behaviour of an individual can be modified behaviour of an individual is response to a situation behaviour of an individual to a specific situation at any time is constant

all of the above

only options 'a' and 'b' are correct

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

behaviour of an individual can be modified

Q 18. Identify from the following which one is the 'line function'. 1. Planning 2. Cashier job 3.

Giving legal advice

Only 1

Only 2
Only 3
1 and 2
1,2 and 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only 2

Explanation:

A “line” function is one that produces results directly in its core business areas. Selling is a line function. The cashier’s job is a line function. Recruiting people is a line function.

A “staff” function is one that provides support services. Giving legal advice is a staff function. Planning is a staff function.

Execution of the plan will be done by the line.

Q 19. Identify from the following, the general term which is best suited for a one- time marketing activity of a new product launch.

Mission Plan Programme Strategy Schedule

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER: Programme

Explanation:

A programme is a decision involving a number of activities to be performed over a specified period of time in order to achieve a stated objective.

Programmes are one-time actions, not repetitive. A programme is usually a concentrated effort.

Q 20. Some questions have only one conclusive answer, they are known as _____ questions. 1. Abstract 2. Closed 3. Open ended

Only 1
Only 2
Only 3
1 and 2
2 and 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only 2

Explanation:

There are some kind of questions that can be answered by giving factual information on data. "Who is the Indian political leader who was originally an Italian?" is an example of such a question. There is only one answer to that question. Such questions are referred to as closed questions. Closed questions help to check general awareness.

Q 21. Who introduced the concept of 'Whole Man'?

Peter Drucker
Henri Fayol
Fred Taylor
JP Morgan
Morgan Stanley

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Peter Drucker

Explanation:

Peter Drucker, one of the greatest management thinkers of our times, has stated that when a company recruits a person it employs "the whole man".

It is believed that every individual has five distinct dimensions to his personality that affect his work.

Q 22. _____ refers to the extent to which the decision-making powers are retained at the higher levels of the hierarchy.

Facilitation Centralization Delegation
Scalar chain
Decentralization

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER: Centralization

Explanation:

Centralization refers to the extent to which the decision-making powers are retained at the higher levels of the hierarchy (centralised) or delegated to the lower levels of the hierarchy (decentralised). Too much of either will not be proper. The optimum levels would depend on a number of factors including the nature of the business and the experience of the personnel involved.

Q 23. Why is ability to maintain equanimity in situations of crisis is needed?

Crisis will be averted

One can avoid crisis the next time around

One can issue clear orders

Crisis will cause minimum damage

Mind can search for appropriate actions to overcome the difficult situations

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Mind can search for appropriate actions to overcome the difficult situations

Explanation:

Ability to maintain equanimity (emotional balance) in situations of crisis is needed so that the brain and mind can search for appropriate actions to overcome the difficult situations.

Lack of equanimity may lead to extremes of anger or depression or panic, none of which are helpful for clear thinking and exploration of available options. Clear thinking becomes a casualty even in cases of ecstatic elation. That is therefore, as bad as too much of anger and despondency.

Q 24. With what the Management of change is concerned? 1. Taking steps to prevent change
2. Content of the change 3. Setting up procedure manuals

1 and 2

2 and 3

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 2

Management of change is concerned with:

- Context of the organisation (outer and inner)

- Content of the change
- Process of implementing the change
- Time or sequence

Q 25. Choose the correct option from below which says about what a section will consist of. 1.

Persons who are having tasks which relate to the same function and the same objective 2.

Persons who are having tasks which relate to the same function, not necessarily the same objective 3. Persons who are having tasks which relate to the same function and different objective

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

1 and 2

1 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 2

Explanation:

A section will consist of persons who are having tasks which relate to the same function, not necessarily the same objective.

Q 26. The aspects of controlling function are: 1. Delegation 2. Appraisal 3. Audit 4.

Decentralization

2 and 3

2,3 and 4

1 and 2

1,2 and 3

1,2,3 and 4

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

2 and 3

Explanation:

Appraisals, business reviews, budget reviews and audit are all different aspects of the controlling function. Some of these are done as the activities are happening. Others are delayed and are retrospective.

The controlling function is most effective when it happens closest to the time of actions.

Otherwise, they may provide lessons for the future, but some wastage may have happened.

Q 27. Complete the following statement with correct option: "Fair remuneration would recognize_____". 1. Cost of living 2. Business conditions 3. Social status of individual

1 and 2

2 and 3

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

1 and 2

Explanation:

Fayol suggested that fair remuneration would recognise cost of living and business conditions, rewarding exceptional efforts, using job rates, bonuses, profit sharing and other methods.

Q 28. Identify from below, the example/s of the Hawthorne experiments.

An interview programme

The relay in an assembly test room

The illumination of the office premises

Wiring of the observation room in a bank

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

Hawthorne effect can be defined as the inclination of some people to perform better and work harder while they are being observed as a part of an experiment.

A bunch of experiments were conducted in the Western Electric Company at the Hawthorne plant in Chicago which became popular as Hawthorne studies or the Hawthorne effect.

Some of the major phases of Hawthorne experiments are as follows:

1. Illumination Experiments

2. Relay Assembly Test Room Experiments

3. Mass Interviewing Programme

4. Bank Wiring Observation Room Experiment.

Q 29. Choose the correct option from the following with respect to 'Goal of an organisation'.

Goal refers to the ends which are sought to be achieved by the operating unit

Goals will change with change in priority
Goals can be different for different branches of same organization
All of the above
Only 'a' and 'c'

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
All of the above

Explanation:

It is often argued that the goals or objectives of an organisation do not change. Goals and objectives are not what are said to be the goals of an organisation, but the ends which are sought to be achieved by every operating unit. Goals change when priorities change. Goals can be different between one branch of an insurance company and another branch of the same company, between one department and another, between one period and another, between one person and another in the same department.

Q 30. Read the following options carefully, and choose the correct one with regards to the term 'Frame of Reference' in communication.

Context or background in which an idea exists
Area of expertise
Validity of the idea
Impact of the idea
Language used to communicate the idea

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Context or background in which an idea exists

Explanation:

The context or background in which an idea exists is important to understanding the idea properly. If the context is not transmitted along with the idea, there would be a difference in meaning. The receiver will assume a different context.

Q 31. Identify the parameters used for job evaluation. 1. Responsibility 2. Span of Control 3.

Knowledge and Skills required

Only 1
Only 2
Only 3
1 and 2
1,2 and 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
1,2 and 3

Explanation:

The theoretical background to fixing wages lies in what is known as the process of job evaluation. In this process, every job is evaluated in terms of:

- tasks (difficulty),
- responsibility,
- knowledge and skills required,
- span of control,
- extent of discretion to be used, etc.

The information available from job evaluation is used to determine the value of various jobs in relation to all other jobs. This is the job evaluation method.

Q 32. Choose the correct option from the following statements with respect to 'motivation'.

Efforts of motivation is waste of energy

Lack of motivation leads to lack of response by employees

An employee can be motivated to 'not to work'

All of the above options are correct

Only options 'b' and 'c' are correct

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only options 'b' and 'c' are correct

Explanation:

The correct meaning of motivation is "the desire to do?". "Doing?" includes "Not doing?".

Therefore, when an employee is not working, he is actually motivated not to work.

The lack of response to the efforts made by managers, is not because of undesirable attitude or character, but because of lack of motivation. The manager's efforts are misdirected.

Q 33. Which is an attempt to make the job more interesting, providing more opportunity for challenge and achievement?

Job change

Job design

Job automation

Job enrichment

Job specification

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Job enrichment

Explanation:

Job enrichment is an attempt to make the job more interesting, providing more opportunity for challenge and achievement. This is done by giving more autonomy and responsibility.

Q 34. How the values and philosophies are best communicated? 1. At meetings through discussions 2. By top management personnel explaining their mind 3. Through experiences reflecting these values, which if not direct, could be captured on films

- Only 1
- Only 2
- Only 3
- 1 and 2
- 1,2 and 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
1,2 and 3

Explanation:

In service organisations, values and philosophies need to be communicated so that they are shared. These are best communicated:

- at meetings through discussions
- through experiences reflecting these values, which if not direct, could be captured on films
- by top management personnel explaining their mind

Q 35. Which factor in the salary structure is specifically intended to compensate for inflation?

- Inflatory allowance
- Compensatory allowance
- Harness allowance
- Dearness allowance
- Options (a) and (b)

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Dearness allowance

Explanation:

The pay based on the scale of pay is usually called basic pay. Apart from the basic pay, employees would be entitled to various benefits.

Some of them are as follows:

- Dearness allowance to compensate for inflation
- City compensatory allowance when posted in costly cities
- House rent allowance, if accommodation is not provided
- Conveyance allowance
- Education allowance for one or two children
- Hardship allowance if posted to difficult locations
- Machine allowance for working on special equipments
- Uniform washing allowance

Q 36. What are the factors which are relevant in career choice of an individual? 1. Ability to accept responsibility 2. Choice of location of employee 3. Health condition of family members

1 and 3

2 and 3

Only 2

Only 3

1, 2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

1, 2 and 3

Explanation:

Career choices are made on the basis of several factors, which are very personal to each individual. There is also a balance struck by each individual on the factors that affect him.

- Someone might prefer to continue staying with or near the town where the parents stay and give up opportunities that require him to relocate.
- Someone may not be attracted by the perks attached to certain positions and would prefer to live a quieter life.
- Not everybody is keen to accept responsibilities.
- Health conditions of self or members of the family may be constraints on making choices.
- Commitment to other causes may place limitations on one's ability to accept jobs that require frequent travel.

Q 37. 'Resources available in individual are their knowledge, skills, insights and creativity'.

Identify from the following, the correct statement with regards to the nature of human resource for an organization.

Ability of good human resources management of an organization is to force the employees to contribute their resources to the organization

Individuals have the choice to make the resources available or withhold for the organization

It is the responsibility of human resources management of an organization to regularly work to develop the resources available within the individuals

Only 'b' and 'c'

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 'b' and 'c'

Explanation:

The resource available in people, is their knowledge, their skills, their insights, their creativity. These resources become available to the organisation for planning, adaptation or innovation, only if the people who possess them make them available.

They may make the resources available or withhold the resources. They have the choice. The choice is made according to whether they feel like contributing to the organisation or not. This "feeling" is the motivation.

Q 38. Choose the correct option from below with respect to 'punishment'.

Threat of punishment always prevents unacceptable performance.

Punishment is likely to have more negative influence than positive influence.

Punishment is to prevent undesirable behaviour.

All of the above options are correct.

Only options (b) and (c) are correct.

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only options (b) and (c) are correct.

Explanation:

A punishment tends to have more negative influence than the positive effects of rewards. The threat of punishment may not prevent unacceptable performance. On the contrary, it could inhibit performance.

A reward system usually includes punishments to prevent undesirable behaviour.

Q 39. Which Physiological factor motivates an individual?

Achievement

Attachment

Power

Hunger and thirst

Status

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Hunger and thirst

Explanation:

According to Abraham Maslow, needs are grouped into five levels, starting from the lower level to the higher level needs. He calls this order "The Hierarchy of Needs" with basic survival-oriented needs at the lower levels of the hierarchy, building up to higher emotional needs associated with love, self-esteem, and self-fulfillment.

Physiological needs are the basic needs for survival like the need for air, food, water, warmth and sleep. According to Maslow, unless these needs are satisfied, the other needs do not arise.

Q 40. Choose the correct option from the following which refers to 'Cafeteria type benefit' for employees.

Family welfare benefits

Legal and mandatory benefits

Flexible optional benefits

Subsidized canteen facility

Group incentive benefits

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Flexible optional benefits

Explanation:

Benefits have become something far more than the 'fringe'. Employees have come to expect the extras as the norm rather than the exception.

Organisations allow employees to choose from a set of available benefits, according to how they see their needs to be. Known as the 'cafeteria' type of benefits, this system seems to succeed. While older employees may prefer retirement benefits the younger ones may opt for immediate benefits like holidays and flexible working hours.

Q 41. Identify from below, the principle of Social Learning Theory.

Learning is a one-way street

Learning requires feedback

Reinforcement is not necessary in case of learning

Individuals learn everything they are taught

Learning happens from observation and direct experiences

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Learning requires feedback

Explanation:

Principles of Social-Learning Theory are:

- Individuals learn only when they want to learn. Workers in an organisation may be willing to learn when they are able to see how the training will be of help to them.
- Learning requires feedback. People learn better if they are told periodically about the progress they are making, as and when they learn, not at the very end.
- Reinforcement encourages repetition of learned behaviour. Thus, if a worker is appreciated when he performs a task well, he is likely to continue to perform the task in that way.
- Practice reinforces learning.
- Learning begins rapidly but later flattens out, if not practised.
- Learning must be transferable to the job.
- Learning must result in a permanent change in behaviour.

Q 42. Choose the correct option from the following, with respect to expectancy theory of motivation.

Benefit has to be in monetary terms only
Effort of an individual is considered as the cost
Efforts do not depend on perception of outcome of the work
Options A and B are correct
All of the above are correct statements

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Effort of an individual is considered as the cost

Explanation:

One of the concepts relating to motivation is that the effort put in will depend on how strong is the need to obtain satisfaction. Making an effort is the cost. Satisfaction derived is the benefit. The mind makes a quick cost-benefit analysis.

This is Vroom's Expectancy theory of Motivation.

Q 43. The attribute/s which is/are not desirable in a group are as follows: 1. Cohesion 2. Loyalty 3. Jealousy among members

Only 1
Only 2
Only 3

1 and 2
2 and 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only 3

Explanation:

The individual, as a member of the group, is affected by the group. If a group is not cohesive and is driven by suspicion, distrust, jealousy, etc.; members of the group are not likely to perform at their best.

To ensure the right climate in the group is the leader's responsibility.

Q 44. Select the correct statement/s from below, with regards to human resources. 1. Are subject to depreciation 2. Can be described in standard parameters which will not change from time to time 3. Can acquire skills on their own and value

Only 1
Only 2
Only 3
2 and 3
1 and 2

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only 3

Explanation:

HR can learn and acquire knowledge and skills on their own, thus enhancing their capabilities, sometimes in totally different areas. They have minds of their own and may work harder or less as they choose to, for reasons that no one else may be able to understand.

They are autonomous in their behaviours. They create their own goals. Unlike other resources, human resources may not depreciate at all. On the contrary they can appreciate.

Q 45. Identify the leadership style which is starting from the one that is highly boss oriented to the one that is subordinate-centered.

Directive leadership
Instrumental leadership
Situational leadership
Leadership continuum
Path goal approach to leadership

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Situational leadership

Explanation:

Hersey and Blanchard have postulated the concept of Situational Leadership which states that the leadership style should depend on the “maturity” of the sub-ordinates.

The word “maturity” is used to refer to: the skill of the sub-ordinate in relation to the tasks at hand, and his will to perform.

Q 46. Frederick W Taylor’s theory of ‘Scientific Management’ is based on which assumption?

Managers should be strict with their workers

Workers need to be multi skilled

Workers should be on fixed wage irrespective of performance

Workers can decide their own methods of performing tasks

Observation of people at work would reveal the best way to do the task

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:

Observation of people at work would reveal the best way to do the task

Explanation:

Taylor’s idea of scientific management was based on the following principles:

- Every job must be understood in terms of time taken and process. This became the subject of “Time and Motion” studies.
- Time and Motion studies should be the basis for comparing jobs to decide on wages and qualifications required for recruitment, replacing “Rule of Thumb” methods.
- Workers should be given detailed instruction on how to do the work and also supervised closely to avoid waste of resources.
- Workers should be given proper training and helped to grow instead of leaving it to themselves to learn on their own.

Q 47. Governments intervened through legislations, in which of the following areas to ensure that the workers are not exploited? 1. Leave Facilities 2. Gratuity 3. Minimum wages 4. Rewards and recognition

2 and 4

1 and 2

1,2 and 3

1, 2 and 4

1,2,3 and 4

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
1,2 and 3

Explanation:

Governments actively intervened through legislations, laying down minimum wages, overtime allowances, retirement benefits, gratuities and other welfare measures, like job security, working conditions, leave facilities, etc., to ensure that workers are not exploited.

Q 48. Identify from below, the merits of written communication. 1. High likelihood of being read
2. Lesser probability of being misunderstood 3. Conducive for friendly relations

- Only 1
- Only 2
- Only 3
- 1 and 3
- 2 and 3

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Only 2

Explanation:

Written communication has the following merits:

- There is a lesser probability of being misunderstood.
- It provides a source of future reference
- It is drafted (coded) more precisely than oral communication.
- It can be made available to a larger number of people by printing and duplication.
- It is more suitable for lengthy messages, such as production figures or financial data.

- It can be kept as proof or evidence of past occurrences.

Q 49. Human Resource department takes care of _____, in an organization.

- Maintenance
- Buildings
- Furniture
- Employees
- Stocks

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER: Employees

Explanation:

Human Resource Management (HRM) is based on the understanding that every individual is complex, endowed with the potential to enhance skills and become a more valuable asset as well as having, at the same time, the capacity to withdraw his skills from work and become a liability.

No person can be looked upon as having standard specifications, like other resources have. They cannot be treated in the same manner uniformly. Each person needs to be handled according to his unique personality.

Q 50. What is the factor called, by which one single negative or positive factor forcefully eclipses other traits in a person?

Perception

Introspection

Halo effect

Hollow effect

Reflection

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Halo effect

Explanation:

Halo effect is the factor by which one single positive or negative factor forcefully eclipses other characteristics. The polished behaviour of a person may make us blind to his attempts to cheat.

Q 51. As per Herzberg Hygiene Theory of Motivation, which one of the following is classified under motivators? 1. Responsibility 2. Salary 3. Supervision

1 and 2

1 and 3

2 and 3

Only 1

1,2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 1

Explanation:

A study by Fredrick Herzberg showed that among the number of factors that employees experienced in a job, some provided satisfactions while others only provided dissatisfactions, if absent.

He called the former group of factors “motivators” and the latter “hygiene factors”.

The motivators are (i) achievement, (ii) recognition, (iii) the work itself, format-one below the other like Hygiene factors (iv) challenge in work, (v) responsibility and (vi) advancement.

The motivators make the worker want to excel, to achieve.

Q 52. Choose the correct statement from below with respect to the learning methodology of ‘case studies’ used by organisations.

Generally, a worst-case scenario is depicted in case study.

Case study is a written description of an imaginary situation and never a real-life situation.

Case study method promotes analytical thinking and problem-solving ability of participants.

All of above are correct

Only options ‘a’ and ‘c’ are correct

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Case study method promotes analytical thinking and problem-solving ability of participants.

Explanation:

A case is a written description of a real-life situation. Participants are given cases to study and identify the issues, and to explore the possible causes and solutions.

The purpose is to make the participants understand the complexity of real-life situations as well as the perplexities of their own approaches to such situations.

The main merit of the case study method is that it promotes analytical thinking and problem-solving ability. One might also learn that what seems obvious at first is perhaps, not the reality and further possibilities must be explored.

Q 53. Who was the scientist associated with the Hawthorne studies?

Barnyard

Taylor

Mayo

Lawler

McGregor

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Mayo

Explanation:

The Hawthorne Studies of Mayo and his colleagues gave rise to the Human Relations Approach to Management.

Q 54. Identify from the following, the correct statement with respect to the purpose of SWOT analysis.

To identify if there is a need for change in business strategy

To look at likely developments in near future and be prepared for what might happen

To identify the weakness of the competitors and use them as an opportunity

All of these

Only 'a' and 'b'

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

To look at likely developments in near future and be prepared for what might happen

Explanation:

The purpose of the SWOT analysis is to look at the likely developments in the foreseeable future and be prepared for what might happen. It is not possible to see the future with any certainty.

Therefore, the practice is to work out the likely scenarios and give values to it in terms of probability. Three scenarios may be prepared, the worst, the most likely and the most favourable.

Q 55. The dimension which relates to self-image, sense of worth, complexes etc. is known as

---

Physiological

Power

Psychological

Social

Economic

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Psychological

Explanation:

It is believed that every individual has five distinct dimensions to his personality that affect his work. They are explained as follows:

- Physiological: which relates to the use of physical strengths, stamina, coordination (of senses, mind and muscle) etc.
- Psychological: which relates to his self-image, sense of self-worth, complexes, fears, preferences, satisfactions etc.

- Social: which relates to his affiliations, memberships and status in religious, professional or community groups
- Economic: which relates to his earnings, standard of living
- Power: which relates to his need (or lack of it) for dominance or dependence

Q 56. Which of the following is/are the principle/s in Fayol's administration theory? 1. Uniform wages 2. Division of work 3. Independence of Worker

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

1 and 2

1,2 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 2

Explanation:

Fayol's fourteen principles are:

- 1 Division of Work
- 2 Authority and Responsibility
- 3 Discipline
- 4 Unity of Command
- 5 Unity of Direction
- 6 Subordination of Individual interest to the Common Good
- 7 Fair Remuneration
- 8 Centralisation
- 9 Scalar Chain
- 10 Order
- 11 Equity
- 12 Stability of tenure of personnel
- 13 Initiative
- 14 Esprit-de-Corps or Union is Strength

Q 57. In a situation where the sub-ordinate is fully mature, the leader_____.

loses interest in the task can delegate to subordinate

monitor the task closely takes an authoritarian approach

None of the above

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER: can delegate to subordinate

Explanation:

When the sub-ordinate is fully mature, that is, both his skill and will are high, the leader can withdraw totally, leaving him to do his job. This is the DELEGATING style where the leader shows little concern for either task or the person.

Q 58. Choose the correct options which best describes the term 'Futurity of decisions'.

A decision which can change in future due to change in the plan and situation

A decision taken now which is adhoc in nature before a final decision in future

A set of activities initiated today and a decision to be taken based on its outcome in future

A decision taken today with the expectation of certain future outcome and sets in motion a set of activities

Impact of the decision taken in the past which is reviewed on a future date

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:

A decision taken today with the expectation of certain future outcome and sets in motion a set of activities

Explanation:

Futurity in decisions:

A decision is made at present so that certain outcomes may occur in future. It sets into motion today a set of activities which are expected to lead to certain events in future.

The expectation is based on the present understanding (of cause-effect relationships possibilities etc.) of the manager, which are formed largely on what may have happened in the past, as experienced by him.

Q 59. Identify from the following the term that refers to tonal variations and facial expressions in communication.

Histrionics

Facets

Graphity

Illustration

Caricature

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Histrionics

Explanation:

Q 62. The TPAs are required to be working in _____ services, as per IRDAI TPA Regulations 2001.

Health

Personnel

Office

Financial

Insurance

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Health

Explanation:

A Third Party Administrator is a body that processes insurance claims admissible under the Mediclaim policy. In general, these administrators are independent but can also act as an entity belonging to the insurer/s.

These bodies are licensed by Insurance Regulatory IRDAI.

We have insurance companies to buy a health insurance cover. But we have a TPA i.e., a Third Party Administrator to fix problems related to the health insurance claims. So as soon as any individual is admitted to the hospital an intimation of the same is given to the TPA.

Q 63. Identify the scenarios in which the decision making becomes an ethical dilemma.

If the considerations for decision making are based on values

If the alternatives for decision making are data based

If the choices available for decision making can be evaluated on economic consideration

Options 'b' and 'c'

All of these

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

If the considerations for decision making are based on values

Explanation:

Making choice between alternatives is called "decision making". All decisions are not dilemmas.

If the alternatives have equal weight in choosing, there could be a dilemma. But it would become an ethical dilemma only if the considerations are based on values. Values are not subject to measurement.

Q 64. Identify from the following the correct option/s which deals with the management of materials. 1. Financial management 2. Materials management 3. Operations management
1 and 3

Only 3

Only 2

1 and 2

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 2

Explanation:

The subject of materials management deals with concepts relating to the ways of managing materials.

Q 65. Identify the correct statement from the following with respect to leaders.

Leaders have power

Leaders without authority are ineffective

All those having powers are leaders

Options 'a' and 'b'

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Leaders have power

Explanation:

Leadership is the ability to influence other people. It is also defined as the process of influencing people.

Leaders have power. But all those having power are not leaders.

Authority includes the right to instruct subordinates. This does not necessarily help him exercise influence.

The ability to influence is defined as power. An effective leader has influence over his people. He therefore has power. A leader of a group, who is not able to influence the behaviour of his people, has no power, even though he may have authority.

Q 66. Identify from the following, the option which describe the term 'Moonlighting' referred in code of ethics of an organization.

Falsification of accounts

Working overtime

Wasting time during office hours and sitting late in office to complete the work
Over projection of achievements
None of the above

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
None of the above

Explanation:

'Moonlighting' is one of the items included in the code of ethics of some firms as strictly prohibited.

Moonlighting refers to the practice of working a second job outside normal business hours.

Therefore, an employee may work a normal 9-to-5 job as a primary source of income but work nights at a different job in order to earn extra money.

Certain organizations may not want employees to work additional jobs while others will not care.

Q 67. Select the correct option from the following, with regards to Quality of Work Life (QWL).

QWL has no bearing on the performance of the organization

Commitment to work is an indicator of Quality of Work Life

Improvement in QWL results in improvement of physical and intellectual capacity of employees

All of the above

Options 'b' and 'c'

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
Options 'b' and 'c'

Explanation:

The quality of the experience at work is Quality of Work Life. Quality of life and Quality of Work Life affect and build on each other.

Certain factors like absenteeism are indications of poor QWL, while commitment to work is an index of good QWL.

Organisations have the responsibility to improve the QWL of their employees. Otherwise, the contributions of employees will be less than optimal. Psychological energy and therefore, physical and intellectual capacities, improve with QWL.

Taking care of QWL directly impacts on organisational performance.

Q 68. Select the correct option from below with respect to the characteristics of human resources.

Individuals are autonomous in their behaviour

Individuals can become a liability to the organization

Individuals can learn and acquire knowledge and skills on their own and enhance their capabilities

Only 'a' and 'b'

All of above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of above

Explanation:

Human Resource can learn and acquire knowledge and skills on their own, thus, enhancing their capabilities, sometimes in totally different areas. They are autonomous in their behaviours. They create their own goals.

Unlike other resources, human resources may not depreciate at all. On the contrary they can appreciate. No resource other than the Human resource has this characteristic to become a more valuable asset or to become a liability, at its choice.

Q 69. Choose the incorrect statement from the following, with respect to 'Fear of punishment'.

Fear of punishment is a motivator

Fear of punishment helps to make the job challenging

Fear of punishment always bring out the best performance from the individual

All of the above

Only 'a' and 'b'

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

Workers may not want to work, when they experience that they are being treated as machines, of no value other than doing the boring routines entrusted to them by their managers. Fear of punishment may motivate them only to avert the fear through:

- Minimal performance or
- Pretensions to performance or
- Using pressure through unions or other external sources to avert the punishment.

On the contrary, they may want to work, if they experience importance at work, recognition of their ability, being trusted to take charge, being consulted for expertise and being recognised as a worthwhile, valuable human being. Herzberg's findings support this assumption.

Q 70. What is the purpose of 'brainstorming' in an organization?

Create innovative ideas

Delegation of responsibilities

Create an atmosphere of relaxation and enjoyment at work place

Options 'a' and 'c'

None of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Options 'a' and 'c'

Explanation:

The process of building up ideas in a group under conditions of relaxed enjoyment without judgment is called "Brainstorming".

Brainstorming is a technique that helps generate creative ideas. A playful atmosphere of fun is important. Children are the most creative. The need to conform, to be proper, to be sure, not to take risks, etc., prevents creativity.

A good leader so manages his people that innovation and creativity are allowed to flourish and not killed. Effective participation is the appropriate technique to achieve this result.

Q 71. The concepts of Schmidt-Tannenbaum refers to _____.

Participation of sub-ordinates in decision making

Behavioural complexity analysis of sub-ordinates

Motivational models of rewards and recognition for sub-ordinates

Approaches to change attitude and behaviour of subordinates

Relationship management with sub-ordinates for productivity improvement

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Participation of sub-ordinates in decision making

Explanation:

The concepts of Hersey-Blanchard and of Schmidt-Tannenbaum refer to the increasing role of the sub-ordinate in the decision-making process. Such participation may be of varying degrees, telling, selling and finally, delegation.

In delegation, the area of freedom for the subordinates is the highest. He takes full responsibility to plan, decide and act.

Q 72. Identify from the following, the option which is generally NOT a part of Job Description.

The equipment needed by the worker

Expected performance standards

An evaluation of the workers personal needs

The major duties relevant to a particular job

An evaluation of the organisations version

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

An evaluation of the workers personal needs

Explanation:

Job description is a statement about the purpose, scope, duties and responsibilities of a job. It includes information relating to the title of the job, the main functions, responsibilities and limits of authority associated with the job clarifying title, what is to be done, where it is to be done, how it is to be done, performance standards, duties and responsibilities attached to it.

Q 73. Name the process which involves finding out suitable candidates, skills and other human resources required based on manpower planning.

Resource analysis

Long range planning

Business plan

Recruitment

Employees Shortlist

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Resource analysis

Explanation:

The first source for availability of people is the organisation itself. For this purpose, the HR department should have what is known as an HR Inventory or Manpower Inventory. This inventory can be of use in finding suitable candidates for posting as well as training, promotion or transfer.

Most organisations have the HR Information System (HRIS) which will, in addition to HR inventory, also have other information like date of birth and compensation, on each employee.

Q 74. What is the meaning of the term 'noise' with reference communication?

Lack of listening

Psychological distance between speaker and listener

Loud sound during communication between two individuals

Materials irrelevant to the topic of discussion

All of the above

All of the above

Explanation:

Problems of communication may be caused because of "Noise" or disturbances in the medium of transmission.

Q 75. Identify from the following, the option which best refers to a change in response to a need which was felt as a result of awareness that the effectiveness is adversely affected.

Creative response

Reactive response

Corrective response

Proactive response

Relative response

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Reactive response

Explanation:

The need for improvement has to be felt before change can happen. Change would then be a response to satisfy the need. The need may be felt because of awareness that the effectiveness is being adversely affected.

In that case, the response is called a reactive one - in the nature of problem solving.

Q 76. What does a 'Team' mean? 1. Roles reporting to different superior role 2. Roles working on different tasks 3. Roles reporting to same superior role

Only 1

Only 2

Only 3

1 and 2

1 and 3

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 3

Explanation:

All roles reporting to the same superior role will be collectively called as a team, a section, a department or any other name that reflects the commonness in that group. They may also be called Branches, Divisions, Zones, Regions, etc.

In a team, all the members would be expected to achieve an objective together, like in a football team. Separate jobs may be allotted to the team members by consensus between themselves or by the team leader or captain.

Q 78. Which will be the biggest HR challenges in the future?

Leader development

Recruitment

Engagement

Selection

Attrition

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Leader development

Explanation:

Some surveys show that the three biggest HR challenges in the future will be:

- Rewarding and retaining the best employees
- Developing the next generation of corporate leaders
- Creating a corporate culture that attracts the best employees

The three challenges mentioned above come from the fact that the talents required are the ones necessitated by the new technology and the new business models.

Q 79. Management styles are adopted from Theory X and Theory Y which are two extreme anchors about human behavior at work. Who has postulated these theories?

Abraham Maslow
McGregor
David Schmidt
Fredrick Herzberg
David McClelland

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER: McGregor

Explanation:

An important theory to understand behaviour of humans at work was postulated by Douglas McGregor. He said that behaviour was not the consequence only of an individual's inherent nature, but was also a result of the manner in which he is managed at work.

Theory X and Theory Y are two extreme anchors. Any worker at a time may be somewhere between X and Y. He has to be managed according to assumptions, appropriate to his personality and character. There is "no average" worker.

Q 80. The decision making becomes an ethical dilemma in which of the following scenarios?

If the alternatives for decision making are data based

If the considerations for decision making are based on values

If the choices available for decision making can be evaluated on economic consideration

All of these

Only in case of options 'a' and 'b'

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:
If the considerations for decision making are based on values

Explanation:

A dilemma exists when a choice has to be made between alternatives.

Every dilemma is not an ethical dilemma. Dilemmas become ethical only when questions of values, of proprieties are involved.

- _____.
- Judgmental
Non-Judgmental
Sentimental Temperamental Argumentative

UnAttempted
CORRECT ANSWER:

Non-Judgmental

Explanation:

A good counsellor should be non-judgmental. He should be willing to accept the fact that, given help and encouragement, most people have the inherent capacity to understand and solve their own problems.

Such a counsellor would convey to the client his genuineness, understanding and acceptance of the client as a unique individual.

Q 89. Which option from below describes the term 'Propriety'?

Actions or behaviour as per written down law

Rules of behaviour conventionally considered to be correct

Legal action or behaviour which is also ethically correct

All of the above

None of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

Propriety is different from legality, which is what the law lays down. What is legally right may not be ethical. Corruption and every abuse of authority happen within the provisions of the law.

Bending the propriety of one's function to achieve personal ends is cheating.

Q 95. Some of the focus areas of effective interpersonal skills are:

Keep the other person relaxed

Focus on correcting the person and not on the task/behaviour

Convey message of concern for the other person

Options ‘a’ and ‘c’

All of these

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Options ‘a’ and ‘c’

Explanation:

Interpersonal skills are skills in relating to other people.

It focuses on abilities to enhance the self of others. Some of the focus areas are:

- If the consequences with a particular work or behaviour are highlighted, the “advice” for a subordinate can change to a joint, problem solving session. That is what is meant by “Focus on the task / behaviour, not the person”.

- A very effective technique in interpersonal transactions is to convey messages that there is concern for the other person.

- Do not make the other person feel anxious or insecure. He should not feel threatened. Say things that keep him relaxed.

Q 96. Identify from the following, general principles involved in taking care of disciplinary problems.

Make disciplinary action impartial

Make disciplinary action biased

Delay disciplinary action

Make disciplinary action punitive

Disciplinary action should not be progressive

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Make disciplinary action impartial

Explanation:

The general principles involved in taking care of disciplinary problems are the following:

- Make disciplinary action corrective rather than punitive.
- Make disciplinary action progressive – begin with oral warning for the first offence, then written warning and only thereafter take sterner steps like salary cut, decrement, demotion and so on.

- Make disciplinary action impartial. Impartiality means applying disciplinary rules uniformly to all persons without fear or favour. If there is no impartiality, morale will go down.

- Keep disciplinary action impersonal

- Follow due procedure and provide adequate opportunity to the employee to explain his position.

A leader gets the people to do what the leader wants them to do

Leadership skill is different from managerial skill

Leader never misdirects

Options (a) and (b)

All of the above

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Options (a) and (b)

Explanation:

- Leadership is the ability to influence other people. It implies that influence is exercised to get the people to do what the leader wants them to do.
- Managing people calls for “leadership” skills. Leadership skills are different from managerial skills.
- Ability to mislead also needs leadership. “Misdirection” is an evaluation of the goals which the leader is working towards.
