Q 1. _____ is considered to be the primary function of management.

- ☐ Planning
- ☐ Budgeting
- ☐ Coming up with a promotion policy for the organisation
- ☐ Executive
- ☐ Selection

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Planning

Explanation:

For every activity there should be a purpose and only when the purpose is clear can we think of what is to be done to achieve it. In a similar way while managing, the first step would be to identify the purpose to be achieved. This is the first step in planning.

Q 3. Barriers to effective communication could be at the _____.

- ☐ receivers end while receiving
- ☐ transmission stage
- ☐ sender's end while coding
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Both a & c

 UnAttemptedCORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

Barriers to effective communication: If the idea in the sender's mind and the idea created in the receiver's mind are the same, communication is effective. In practice, several things happen during the process of communication, because of which, the meaning created in the receiver's mind is different from what was in the sender's mind. The reasons are many. They are called Barriers to effective communications.

They may happen at the stage of coding, during the transmission in the medium or channel or at the receiver's end.

- ☐ individual whims
- ☐ an organization's flat structure
- ☐ people holding positions according to their social status
- ☐ hierarchy of positions
- ☐ unclear demarcation of work

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

hierarchy of positions

Explanation:

The essential components of a formal bureaucratic organisation, as described by Max Weber, are:

- i. Division of labour, meaning that at every level and position, the tasks to be performed are to be clearly determined and defined
- ii. Hierarchy of positions, meaning that the chain of command is clearly defined and understood along with Responsibility and Accountability at every level
- iii. Uniformity of rules relating to conduct and discipline, which would apply uniformly to everyone.
- iv. Impersonality, meaning that individual personal considerations would not apply when dealing with work and people. Recruitment, placements and promotions will be based on prescribed qualifications.
- v. Primacy of merit meaning people will occupy high positions by virtue of their competence and not their political or social

- ☐ Only 3
- ☐ Only 1
- ☐ Only 2
- ☐ Both 2 & 3
- ☐ Both 1 & 2

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Both 2 & 3

Explanation:

The correct answer is d. 2 and 3.

Promotions can create vacancies in lower positions, requiring new manpower to fill those roles. Deaths result in permanent vacancies, which also necessitate hiring new personnel. Leave for short duration, however, are temporary and usually do not lead to new manpower requirements, as they are covered by existing staff or temporary arrangements.

- ☐ Centralisation
- ☐ Decentralization
- ☐ Scalar chain
- ☐ Delegation
- ☐ Facilitation

 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Centralisation

Explanation:

Centralisation refers to the extent to which the decision making powers are retained at the higher levels of the hierarchy (centralised) or delegated to the lower levels of the hierarchy (decentralised). Too much of either will not be proper. The optimum levels would depend on a number of factors including the nature of the business and the experience of the personnel involved.

Q 8. Choose the INCORRECT option - Transfer is usually carried out to _____.

- ☐ avoid creation of vested interest
- ☐ give the employee exposure to various functions
- ☐ give wider exposure by changing the geographical location
- ☐ use the employee's specialised skills
- ☐ impose a penalty on the employee

impose a penalty on the employee

Explanation:

Transfer refers to the movement of an employee from one job to another within the organisation. It may or not involve any significant change in the emoluments and status. Transfer is one of the methods of filling up a vacancy that arises in an office. Transfers may be done also as part of the career plan for individual employees, with a view to provide them wider experience. Job rotation is the name given when employees who are doing well are transferred to jobs that require different skills, as a part of a programme of career development.

While a transfer might sometimes feel like a punishment to an employee if it's to a less desirable location or role, using transfer specifically as a penalty is generally considered poor management practice and is not a standard or appropriate reason for effecting a transfer. Disciplinary actions should follow separate, established procedures. Transfers are typically intended for organizational needs, employee development, or resource optimization.

Q 9. Which of the following attributes help the leader in gaining power?

- ☐ Regard for authority of the leader
- ☐ Fear that the leader may punish
- ☐ A leader's personality characteristics
- ☐ Both a & c
- ☐ All of the above

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

A leader has to acquire power from his subordinates. Power is given to a leader for a number of reasons. Some of the reasons are as follows:

1. Fear that the leader may punish. Authority to punish is not enough. Some persons who may have authority to punish may be seen as unlikely to exercise that authority because he is too mild or too kind.
2. Hope that the leader can reward. Rewards are not necessarily official like increments or promotions, which require authority. Anything that gives satisfaction is a reward.
3. Regard for the authority of the leader. Many of the subordinates abide by the instructions of their superiors, because they recognise and respect the position of the superior. The superiors are then able to influence. They have power which flows from the acceptance of the legitimacy of the appointment.

- ☐ Both 1 & 3
- ☐ Both 1 & 2
- ☐ Both 2 & 3
- ☐ Only 3
- ☐ All of the above

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Both 1 & 3

Explanation:

There are many skills required by a manager to become a good counsellor. The most important among them are the skills of active listening, empathy and intervention. The counsellor must be capable of being patient, tolerant and understanding.

Active listening means listening attentively so as to get both the meaning and the feeling behind what is being said. Maintaining general eye contact, being aware of non-verbal communication (body language) and concentrating on what the client says (avoiding the temptation to reply to his point) – these are characteristics of active listening. The skill of active listening can be developed by practice.

Q 11. Identify from the following, the correct statement/s with regard to empowerment.

- ☐ An employee not feeling empowered will always challenge the decision of his seniors
- ☐ An employee feeling empowered will wait for approval of his senior for any decision
- ☐ A person can be empowered through delegation of authority
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ None of the above

 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

None of the above

Explanation:

Empowerment is what an employee feels about his duty, about what is expected from him.

When an employee does not feel empowered, he would delegate the authority upwards by consulting the senior for “advice?, for “approval?, etc; informally, if not formally. An empowered employee does what he thinks needs to be done in the interest of the organisation, even if he does not have formal authority. Or he may chase people who have authority, to get them to do.

Those who do not feel empowered do not challenge or attempt to modify the decisions of seniors, even when aware of the need to modify. Empowerment is what an employee feels about his duty, about what is expected from him. An employee not feeling empowered, will not take initiative, will not do anything more than what he is told to do.

- ☐ Nature of work is highly skilled and technical.
- ☐ High level of decentralization.
- ☐ Responsibility of the subordinate not clearly defined.
- ☐ Subordinates operate from places which are distant from the location of the supervisor who stop

 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

High level of decentralization.

Explanation:

In an organisational structure, there is always a superior to whom sub-ordinates will report. The expression "Span of Control" is used to refer to the number of persons who report to any one superior. The term span of control is also known as Span of management, Span of supervision or the Span of authority.

In a highly decentralised set up the supervisor does not have to take too many decisions. This helps the supervisor to look after a large number of employees.

- ☐ It has acquired a negative reputation for inefficiency and rigidity
- ☐ It rejects rational approaches to managing organizations
- ☐ It is based on rules and procedures rather than personal preference and judgement
- ☐ Both options 'a' and 'd' are correct

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Both options 'a' and 'd' are correct

Explanation:

Weber described a formal organisation as a “Legal – Rational” system based on precisely defined and organised “across-the-board” competencies of various offices and individuals. He called such a system a Bureaucracy.

Weber's principles of hierarchy, division of labour, uniformity of rules, etc, continue to be the basis of most organisations today, whether small or big, whether in the public sector or in the private sector.

The need for ensuring that uniform treatment is provided to all customers, makes bureaucracy, with clear rules and procedures, authority and centralisation, inevitable.

The same considerations apply to treatment of employees also. Specialisation in tasks helps speedy and accurate performance of tasks as well as development of expertise.
