Q 1. What is the likely approach and nature of a manager operating on Theory Y assumptions? 1. Inconsiderate 2. Democratic 3. Autocratic 4. Workaholics

- ☐ Only 1 & 4
- ☐ Only 1 & 3
- ☐ Only 2
- ☐ Only 1,2 & 4
- ☐ Only 1,3 & 4

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 2

Explanation:

Theory Y, developed by Douglas McGregor, assumes that employees are inherently motivated, capable of self-direction, and enjoy taking on responsibility. Managers who operate with Theory Y assumptions tend to encourage participation, foster a collaborative work environment, and trust employees to be proactive. This aligns with a democratic leadership style, where decision-making is shared, employees have a voice, and creativity and innovation are encouraged.

Options like autocratic and inconsiderate do not fit Theory Y, as these traits are more aligned with Theory X, which assumes that employees require strict control and external motivation. While some Theory Y managers may be highly dedicated to their work, the term workaholics doesn't capture the essence of their management philosophy.

Q 2. _____communication occurs when a Managing Director communicates to all the employees regarding the company's performance for the year.

- ☐ Diagonal
- ☐ Downward
- ☐ Internal
- ☐ Lateral
- ☐ Horizontal

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Downward

Explanation:

Communication takes place among different individuals, groups, departments and within the organisation as a whole. Communication may be called "upward" when a sub-ordinate communicates to his superior and "downward" when the superior communicates to his sub-ordinates. Communication may also be "lateral" when the people of the same hierarchical level communicate with each other.

Downward communication seeks to convey company policies and objectives. That is how directions and instructions are issued. Co-ordination and control depend upon both upward and downward communication.

Explanation:

Based on the principles of effective communication, let's evaluate the essentials for developing an idea into a message:

Therefore, the three essentials from the list for transforming an idea into a message are 3, 4, and 5.

1. Using all available communication channels: Not essential. Effective communication involves selecting the most appropriate channel(s) for the message and audience, not necessarily using all of them. Using inappropriate or too many channels can be inefficient or confusing.
2. Surrounding the message with noise: Incorrect. Noise refers to interference that hinders communication. Effective message development aims to minimize noise, not create it.
3. Whom the message is meant for: Essential. Knowing your audience (receiver) is crucial. It influences the tone, language, complexity, and content of the message to ensure it's understood and received appropriately.
4. What is expected from the receiver by the sender after the former receives the message: Essential. Defining the purpose or desired outcome (e.g., inform, persuade, request action, get feedback) is fundamental. It shapes the message's content, structure, and call to action.
5. The way in which the receiver will interpret the message: Essential. Anticipating the receiver's perspective, potential understanding, and reaction helps the sender craft the message clearly and avoid misunderstandings. This is closely linked to knowing the audience.

- ☐ 9.1
- ☐ 5.5
- ☐ 1.1
- ☐ 1.9
- ☐ 2.7

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:9.1*Explanation:

9.1 type of leaders have very high concern for task but very low concern for people. They operate on Theory X assumptions. They are hard taskmasters, expect implicit obedience to instructions, show little concern for problems and feelings of people, and are interested in people only as instruments for production.

They look at quantity and quality of output, workload and efficiency measurements. They do not seek suggestions. They threaten. They are workaholics, highly committed organisational people, seen as ruthless and inconsiderate. They are usually described as authoritarian, autocratic or dictatorial.

- ☐ 1,2 & 4
- ☐ 1, 2, & 3
- ☐ Both 1 & 3
- ☐ Both 2 & 4
- ☐ All of the above

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Both 2 & 4

Explanation:

Performance factors: Skill, Will and Support.

Appraisal or evaluation of performance is part of the development process. Performance of an individual is the resultant of: his skill or ability to do, his willingness or motivation to do, the support he gets from the organisation.

"Support" relates to availability of adequate information, equipment, direction etc.

All the three factors, Skill, Will and Support, must be present at the same time, if there has to be any performance. If any one of these three happens to be zero, the total performance is zero. An effective performance appraisal has to identify not only the performance but also the extent of skills (or lack of it), motivation and support. Only then will the difficulties experienced by the

- ☐ In a consensus decision the decisions are unanimous
- ☐ When the leader is successful in convincing all members to agree to his view point, a majority decision becomes consensus decision
- ☐ In a majority decision there are likely to be differences between members
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ None of the above

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

Consensus decision vs. Majority decision: A consensus decision is not a majority decision. A majority decision is a mechanism to arrive at a decision, despite differences. That could leave others with a sense of having been defeated or ignored. In a consensus, the differences are listened to with respect, not ridiculed, are discussed fully and narrowed down, till agreement is found on substantial points. A leader must be able to generate consensus decisions.

Explanation:

Henri Fayol (1841-1925) a French industrialist, based on his experiences of managing a mining company, put forward the first theory of general management which came to be known as the Administration Theory. Fayol enumerated fourteen principles of management, some of which are:

Unity of Command: A person should receive instructions from only one superior. Otherwise authority will be undermined and discipline likely to be threatened.

Centralisation: This refers to the extent to which the decision making powers are retained at the higher levels of the hierarchy (centralised) or delegated to the lower levels of the hierarchy (decentralised). Too much of either will not be proper.

Q 14. _____ questions in an interview are usually meant to understand the thought process of the candidate.

- ☐ Specific
- ☐ Objective
- ☐ Close-ended
- ☐ Exploratory
- ☐ Both a & b

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Exploratory

Explanation:

There are other kinds of questions that can be answered in a number of different ways and require the candidate to think. He will have to give his opinion and his reasons. "Why do you say so?" is a question of this kind. Such questions are called open-ended questions. They are exploratory in nature and reveal the thinking process of the candidate. They are most appropriate to understand the person being interviewed.

Exploratory questions would elicit answers that reveal the candidate's thoughts. These thoughts may not find the approval of the interviewer. But they would show how the candidate thinks. If the disapproval is expressed, the candidate may get disturbed and even nervous. There is no need to argue with the candidate or to prove him wrong. The interview is meant to help know the candidate.

- ☐ Methods for changing subordinates attitude and behaviour
- ☐ Relationship management with subordinates for management of productivity
- ☐ Behavioral complexity assessment of subordinates
- ☐ Motivational models of rewards and recognition for subordinates
- ☐ Subordinate involvement in decision making

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Subordinate involvement in decision making

Explanation:

Schmidt and Tannenbaum's Leadership Continuum model: The Hersey and Blanchard concept follows closely the Leadership Continuum model proposed by Schmidt and Tannenbaum, which classifies the style according to the extent of participation or freedom given to the sub-ordinate, in decision making.

At one end of the continuum the style is where the participation by the sub-ordinate is low. The participation increases as one moves up on the continuum till at the other end, participation is highest and the leader takes a smaller role. They postulate that the style will depend on the personality of the leaders and also on the characteristics of the sub-ordinates, individually and as a group.

- ☐ Warning
- ☐ Dismissal
- ☐ With holding of promotion
- ☐ Censure
- ☐ Decrement

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Dismissal

Explanation:

Managers come across problem people. They have to be helped to improve. Or else they have to be removed from the organisation. Normally, removal or dismissal is resorted to:

- i. if the problem is seen to be beyond correction like alcoholism or
- ii. persistent misbehavior or if the problem is of a criminal nature like committing a fraud or theft or if it is a case of unacceptable indiscipline.

Managements are not very enthusiastic about dismissing people, because the cost of acquiring that employee would go waste. Further, dismissals may lead to prolonged industrial disputes, diverting the organisation's energies into non-productive channels.

- ☐ Past experience and data have to be taken into consideration for proper planning
- ☐ Planning guarantees a specified future for an organisation
- ☐ Planning is worked up on the basis of probabilities and possibilities
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Only a & c

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only a & c

Explanation:

Planning is a decision. It does not guarantee a specified future. It does not determine with finality the things to happen in future.

Planning is based on possibilities and probabilities. Planning involves looking into the future. It is however not prophecy. It is not forecasting in the sense of saying beforehand what will happen. Neither prophecy nor forecasting is possible. Planning is necessary because it is not possible to prophesy and forecast.

A plan is not a blueprint of the future but is worked up on the basis of possibilities and probabilities. It is judgment on the basis of data available now, about what kind of future may develop and can be built. It decides on what to do now, so that we may (not will) get the results when we want them.

Q 29. Select the correct option which describes the term “moonlighting” referred in the code of ethics of an organization.

- ☐ Over projection of achievements
- ☐ Falsification of account's
- ☐ Working overtime
- ☐ Wasting time during office hours and setting late in office to complete the work
- ☐ None of these

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

None of these

Explanation:

‘Moonlighting’ is one of the items included in the code of ethics of some firms as strictly prohibited.

Moonlighting refers to the practice of working a second job outside normal business hours. Therefore, an employee may work a normal 9-to-5 job as a primary source of income but work nights at a different job in order to earn extra money.

Certain organizations may not want employees to work additional jobs while others will not care.

Q 30. Identify the correct option with respect to the importance of “listening” in communication.

- ☐ One listens to all he hears
- ☐ Communication is received through listening
- ☐ Listening is receiving communication through the ear only
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ None of the above

🚫 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Communication is received through listening

Explanation:

The word “listening” is used here to include all ways of receiving a communication, and not only through the use of the ear. When one reads a letter or a representation, one is “listening”. One cannot receive a communication without listening. One may hear but not listen. One hears much more than one listens to.

Listening is important for effective communication.

Q 31. Name the informal and unstructured communication channel that cuts across formal channels of communication.

- ☐ Lateral communication
- ☐ Written communication
- ☐ Vertical communication
- ☐ Downward communication
- ☐ Grapevine

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Grapevine

Explanation:

Much communication takes place in organisations through informal communication channels. These channels do not recognise official levels of positions.

The informal network connects persons who are socially affiliated, mostly through the medium of word-of-mouth. Known as the grapevine, these informal channels carry information with little distortion because the members share languages, perceptions and frames of reference (social affiliations bring about commonness of interest and outlook) and have little cause for defensiveness.

CORRECT ANSWER:

A decision taken today with the expectation of certain future outcome and sets in motion a set of activities

Explanation:

Futurity in decisions:

A decision is made at present so that certain outcomes may occur in future. It sets into motion today a set of activities which are expected to lead to certain events in future.

The expectation is based on the present understanding (of cause-effect relationships possibilities etc.) of the manager, which are formed largely on what may have happened in the past, as experienced by him.

Q 35. One of the principles of bureaucracy as laid down by Max Weber is _____.

- ☐ Occupying higher positions based on age
- ☐ Occupying higher positions based on bias
- ☐ Occupying higher positions based on length of service
- ☐ Occupying higher positions based on educational qualifications
- ☐ Occupying higher positions by virtue of their competence

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Occupying higher positions by virtue of their competence

Explanation:

The essential components of a formal bureaucratic organisation, as described by Weber, are:

- Division of labour, meaning that at every level and position, the tasks to be performed are to be clearly determined and defined
- Hierarchy of positions, meaning that the chain of command is clearly defined and understood along with Responsibility and Accountability at every level
- Uniformity of rules relating to conduct and discipline, which would apply uniformly to everyone
- Impersonality, meaning that individual personal considerations would not apply when dealing with work and people.

Q 36. Identify one of the common manifestations of drift from the following:

- ☐ Strong and divergent departmental perspectives
- ☐ Empowered employees
- ☐ Agile response to market demands
- ☐ Good inter-personal relationship
- ☐ Moving towards definite goal

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Strong and divergent departmental perspectives

Explanation:

The most common manifestations of drift are:

- Strong and divergent departmental perspectives, leading to intergroup differences or conflict
- Diffused controls from too many control points, having different thrusts
- Low morale among the employees, manifesting in lack of concern for performance, poor inter-personal relationships, rigidity in styles of functioning and indifference to results
- Employees having a feeling of being neglected
- Poor response to market demands.

CORRECT ANSWER:

Q 39. Identify from the following which one is the 'line function'. 1. Planning 2. Cashier job 3. Giving legal advice

- ☐ Only 1
- ☐ Only 2
- ☐ Only 3
- ☐ 1 and 2
- ☐ 1,2 and 3

⛔ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 2

Explanation:

A "line" function is one that produces results directly in its core business areas. Selling is a line function. The cashier's job is a line function. Recruiting people is a line function.

A "staff" function is one that provides support services. Giving legal advice is a staff function. Planning is a staff function.

Execution of the plan will be done by the line.

Q 40. Identify from below the correct option which can be considered as example of a 'rule' of an organization. 1. Footwear not allowed inside the office 2. No smoking inside the lab area 3. Work from Home allowed for employees 5 days a month 4. 10% profit to be utilized for charity activity

- ☐ 1 and 2
- ☐ 3 and 4
- ☐ 1,2 and 4
- ☐ 2,3 and 4
- ☐ 1,2,3 and 4

🚫 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

1,2 and 4

Explanation:

Rules lay down what is permissible and what is not permissible. In a sense, a rule is law for the company.

When there is a rule, there is no discretion unless the rule itself allows for it. Some offices have rules on the dress to be worn at work. Rules can be changed by those who made the rules.

Rules are general guidelines and therefore may seem similar to policies.

Q 41. Frederick W Taylor's theory of 'Scientific Management' is based on which assumption?

- ☐ Managers should be strict with their workers
- ☐ Workers need to be multi skilled
- ☐ Workers should be on fixed wage irrespective of performance
- ☐ Workers can decide their own methods of performing tasks
- ☐ Observation of people at work would reveal the best way to do the task

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Observation of people at work would reveal the best way to do the task

Explanation:

Taylor's idea of scientific management was based on the following principles:

- Every job must be understood in terms of time taken and process. This became the subject of "Time and Motion" studies.
- Time and Motion studies should be the basis for comparing jobs to decide on wages and qualifications required for recruitment, replacing "Rule of Thumb" methods.
- Workers should be given detailed instruction on how to do the work and also supervised closely to avoid waste of resources.
- Workers should be given proper training and helped to grow instead of leaving it to themselves to learn on their own.

Q 42. What is the purpose of 'brainstorming' in an organization?

- ☐ Create innovative ideas
- ☐ Delegation of responsibilities
- ☐ Create an atmosphere of relaxation and enjoyment at work place
- ☐ Options 'a' and 'c'
- ☐ None of the above

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Options 'a' and 'c'

Explanation:

The process of building up ideas in a group under conditions of relaxed enjoyment without judgment is called "Brainstorming".

Brainstorming is a technique that helps generate creative ideas. A playful atmosphere of fun is important. Children are the most creative. The need to conform, to be proper, to be sure, not to take risks, etc., prevents creativity.

A good leader so manages his people that innovation and creativity are allowed to flourish and not killed. Effective participation is the appropriate technique to achieve this result.

Q 43. Which are the assets of an organization, whose value is unlikely to increase by themselves unless some interventions, improvements or additions are made to them?

- ☐ Human resources
- ☐ Machinery
- ☐ Materials
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Only 'b' and 'c'

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Only 'b' and 'c'

Explanation:

Other than Human Resources, all other assets, money, materials, machines and time, have capacities and capabilities, which are known at the time of procurement.

Over a period of time, these resources depreciate in value and cease to be assets. Their capacities will not enhance by themselves unless some improvements or additions are made to them.

Q 50. Choose the correct option from the following which refers to 'Cafeteria type benefit' for employees.

- ☐ Family welfare benefits
- ☐ Legal and mandatory benefits
- ☐ Flexible optional benefits
- ☐ Subsidized canteen facility
- ☐ Group incentive benefits

🚫 UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Flexible optional benefits

Explanation:

Benefits have become something far more than the 'fringe'. Employees have come to expect the extras as the norm rather than the exception.

Organisations allow employees to choose from a set of available benefits, according to how they see their needs to be. Known as the 'cafeteria' type of benefits, this system seems to succeed. While older employees may prefer retirement benefits the younger ones may opt for immediate benefits like holidays and flexible working hours.

2. Attitudes 3. Behavior

- ☐ 1 and 2
- ☐ 2 and 3
- ☐ 1,2 and 3
- ☐ Only 2
- ☐ Only 3

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

1,2 and 3

Explanation:

Communication is intended to influence the attitudes, thoughts and behaviour of people. Therefore, feelings need to be taken note of and not ignored. They are not always expressed verbally but they are expressed in subtle ways, mainly through body language.

A good communicator has to be sensitive to these.

Q 58. Barriers to effective communication can happen in which of the following stages?

- ☐ At the transmission stage
- ☐ At the sender's end while coding
- ☐ At the receiver's end when receiving
- ☐ All of the above
- ☐ Options 'a' and 'b'

❌ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

All of the above

Explanation:

If the idea in the sender's mind and the idea created in the receiver's mind are the same, communication is effective. In practice, several things happen during the process of communication, because of which, the meaning created in the receiver's mind is different from what was in the sender's mind.

The reasons are many. They are called Barriers to effective communications.

They may happen at the stage of coding, during the transmission in the medium or channel or at the receiver's end.

Q 61. What does the term 'level' mean in the sentence, 'Persons with good interpersonal skills, level with others'.?

- ☐ Speak diplomatically
- ☐ Speak frankly and openly
- ☐ Provide equal opportunity for all to express their views
- ☐ Speak what the other person like to hear
- ☐ Avoid speaking unpleasant truth

⊘ UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Avoid speaking unpleasant truth

Explanation:

Good interpersonal relationships do not build, if one is suspected of bluffing or cheating the other. Persons with good interpersonal skills, therefore, level with others.

Levelling means that you say what you have in mind. But the skill is in saying it without offending or calling the other person names. If the person is suspected of having been unfair, state the facts and the grounds of suspicion without calling him "unfair". Calling a spade, a spade is not a great virtue.

Q 69. Which of the following statements is true with regards to Case Study Concept of training?

- ☐ Helps participants in group centered discussion like in seminars
- ☐ Enriches job knowledge
- ☐ Gives more focus to the trainer's role
- ☐ Helps in learning skills through practice
- ☐ Promotes analytical thinking & problem solving

UnAttempted

CORRECT ANSWER:

Promotes analytical thinking & problem solving

Explanation:

A case is a written description of a real-life situation. The purpose is to make the participants understand the complexity of real-life situations as well as the perplexities of their own approaches to such situations. The main merit of the case study method is that it promotes analytical thinking and problem-solving ability. One might also learn that what seems obvious at first is perhaps, not the reality and further possibilities must be explored.
